Learn about different painting styles in Western art

1 Before you read, look at the paintings in this section. What do you know about them? Do you know who painted them?

Identify change

To help identify the changes that an article talks about, look for words that express change, such as development, breakthrough, innovation, begin, and shift, and the construction from ... to ....

2 Read the passage and make a flow chart to show the changes in Western painting styles.

A SHORT HISTORY OF WESTERN PAINTING

What is Western art? It is hard to give a precise definition. As there have been so many different styles of Western art, it is impossible to describe them all in a short text. Perhaps the best way to understand Western art is to look at the development of Western painting over the centuries.

The Middle Ages (from the 5th to the 15th century)

During the Middle Ages, the purpose of Western art was to teach people about Christianity. Thus, artists were not interested in painting realistic scenes. Their works were often primitive and two-dimensional, and the main characters were often made much larger than everyone else to show their importance. This began to change in the 13th century with Giotto di Bondone (1267–1337). While his paintings still had religious themes, they showed real people in a real environment. In particular, his paintings are set apart from other paintings by their realistic human faces and deep emotional impact.

The Renaissance (from the 14th to the 17th century)

New ideas and values gradually replaced old ones from the Middle Ages. As a result, painters concentrated less on religious themes. They began to adopt a more humanistic attitude to life. An important breakthrough during this period was the use of perspective by Masaccio (1401–1428). Influential painters such as Leonardo da Vinci (1452–1519), Michelangelo (1475–1564), and Raphael (1483–1520) built upon Giotto and Masaccio's innovations to produce some of the greatest art that Europe had ever seen.

Self-Portrait with Shaded Eyes

Another innovation was the use of oil paints. With their deep colours and realism, some of the best oil paintings look like photographs. While painters as early as Da Vinci had used oil, this technique reached its height with Rembrandt (1606–1669), who gained a reputation as a master of shadow and light.

In subject matter, the emphasis increasingly shifted from religious themes to people and the world around us. Kings, nobles, and people of high rank wanted to purchase accurate pictures of themselves and the people they loved. Others wanted paintings showing important historical events or stories from mythology. Finally, most clients wanted paintings that were beautiful and interesting to look at.

Impressionism (late 19th to early 20th century)

The development of Western art slowed until the invention of photography in the mid-19th century. After that, paintings were no longer needed to preserve what people and the world looked like. Hence, painters had to find a new way of looking at their art. From this, Impressionism emerged in France. The name of this new movement came from the painting by Claude Monet (1840–1926) called Impression, Sunrise. In this work, Monet's aim was to convey the light and movement in the scene—the subjective impression the scene gave him—but not a detailed record of the scene itself.

Impression, Sunrise

While many Impressionists painted scenes of nature or daily life, others, such as Renoir (1841–1919), focused on people. Unlike the cold, black-and-white photographs of that time period, Renoir's paintings are full of light, shadow, colour, and life. He sought to show not just the outer image of his subjects, but their inner warmth and humanity as well.

Modern Art (from the 20th century to today)

After Impressionism, subsequent artists began to ask, "What do we do next?" Painters such as Picasso (1881–1973) tried to analyse the shapes which existed in the natural world but in a new way, with Cubism. Others gave their paintings a realistic but dream-like quality. Still others turned to abstract art. What they attempted to do was no longer show reality, but instead to ask the question, "What is art?"

ANCIENT CHINESE ART ON SHOW

The Richfield Museum of Fine Art is proud to present our new exhibition, “From Shang to Qing: Chinese Art Through the Ages.” Join us as we explore more than 3,000 years of wonderful art from the Middle Kingdom. From bronze bowls to ceramic vases, and jade sculptures to ink wash paintings, our goal is to display the Chinese artistic genius from ancient times.

The highlight of this exhibition is the painting Clearing After Snow on a Mountain Pass, one of the great works of Tang Yin (1470–1524). Born during the Ming Dynasty, Tang sought and failed to gain entry into the civil service, so he turned to painting instead. In time, he gained recognition as one of the greatest artists China has ever known. This painting, showing high mountains, trees, and houses covered in snow, was made with extraordinary skill. Though it is over 500 years old, it looks as fresh and full of life as the day it was created.

Also of primary note is a collection of nearly 100 bronze objects from the Shang Dynasty (1600 BCE–1046 BCE). While the artists who made these great works are not known, they showed great skill in creating these beautiful pieces. Some of the items on display are thought to have come from the collection of Emperor Qianlong (1711–1799), a great admirer of Shang Dynasty bronze.

Finally, we have many fine examples of Tang Dynasty (618–907) sculptures. Most of these are of Buddhist origin. Even though Buddhism entered China much earlier, it did not really begin to show expansion until the seventh century. During this same period, trade along the Silk Road also boomed. Chinese sculpture thus found itself highly influenced by Buddhist art brought from India and Central Asia through the Silk Road. These works were intended to spread Buddhism and they are of exceptional beauty and quality. Looking at the faces of the figures in these sculptures, one sees the faces of the past. History is brought to life.

This is just a small taste of what is in store for you in this exhibition. We guarantee that “From Shang to Qing: Chinese Art Through the Ages” will transport you to another time with its amazing collection of works.

“From Shang to Qing: Chinese Art Through the Ages” will run until November 25.

Opening hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., from Tuesday to Sunday (the museum is closed on Mondays). No one will be admitted into the exhibition after 4:30 p.m.

Admission: $10 for adults; $8 for students; $5 for children under 12; free for children under 5.

No photos or food and drink are allowed in the museum.

* Project: Do a talk show about an artist

You are going to make a role-play of a talk show which has a famous artist as the guest.

- 1 In groups, brainstorm a list of famous artists and their representative works. Here are some ideas.

La Primavera, by Sandro Botticelli (1445–1510)

Le Poète, by Auguste Rodin (1840–1917)

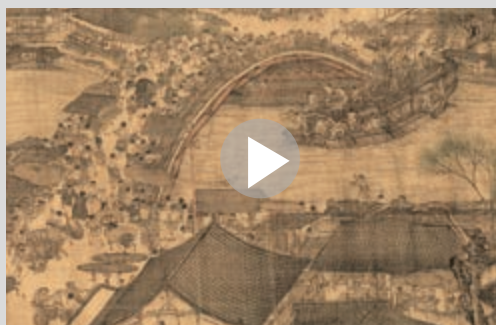

Shrimps, by Qi Baishi (1864–1957)

- 2 Decide on which artist your group is going to talk about.

 - talk show host: questions for the guests
 - artist: biography of the artist, philosophy towards art, details about his/her most representative works
 - family: What was the artist like when he/she was a child or growing up? What was it like living with the artist? What do they think of the artist's talent and work?
 - friend: How did they meet the artist? What is the artist like as a person? What do they think of the artist and his work?

- 4 Now role-play your talk show before your class.

Notes for doing the talk show:

- Keep in mind that guests may have different opinions as to what the artist is like and how talented he/she was, so they should feel free to disagree and discuss.
- If possible, the group should also find large photos or posters of the artist's representative work to be used as talk show exhibits.
- Towards the end of the talk show, the host should go out into the "audience" (i.e., the class) and take questions from the audience.

- ☐ A How to change a bad habit and create good ones
- ☐ B The cycle of how habits are formed
- ☐ C Habits that can help us study better
- ☐ D Changing habits gradually
- ☐ E No easy way to change bad habits
- ☐ F What a habit is
- ☐ G Why bad teenage habits should be changed

Find the main idea of a paragraph

The main idea is sometimes stated in either the opening or closing sentence. If not, look for another “standout” sentence, or summarise the paragraph in your mind by asking yourself, “What is it mainly about?”

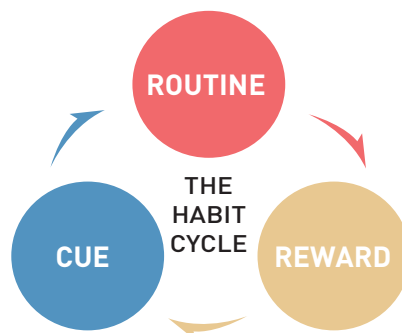

HABITS FOR A HEALTHY LIFESTYLE

As teenagers grow up, they become more independent and start making their own decisions. However, during this period, it can be easy for some of them to form bad habits. These bad habits, if left unchecked, could lead to more serious ones when they become adults. For example, some of them may become involved in tobacco or alcohol abuse, which can lead to physical and mental health problems. To prevent harmful habits like these from dominating a teenager’s life is essential. They must learn to recognise bad habits early and make appropriate changes.

To change bad habits is never easy, even with many attempts. There is a famous saying based on the philosophy of Aristotle: “We are what we repeatedly do.” In many ways, our lifestyle is the sum of choices we have made. We make a choice to do something, and then we repeat it over and over again. Soon that choice becomes automatic and forms a habit that is much harder to change. The good news is that we can change, if we understand how habits work.

According to modern psychology, we must first learn about the “habit cycle”, which works like this:

- Firstly, there is a “cue”, an action, event, or situation that acts as a signal to do something.
- Secondly, there is a “routine”, the regular action you take in response to the cue.
- Thirdly, there is the “reward”, the good thing or feeling we get from the routine.

For example, when we feel unhappy (cue), we eat lots of unhealthy snacks (routine), which makes us feel happy (reward). The reward makes us much more likely to continue the cycle, and the bad habit of relying on unhealthy snacks is formed.

To facilitate a positive change in our bad habits, we must first examine our bad habit cycles and then try to adapt them. We can do this by combining the information from our habit cycles with our own positive ideas. For example, we could try to replace a negative routine with something more positive. So, when we feel unhappy again (cue), rather than eat snacks, we could listen to some of our favourite music instead (routine), which will make us feel relaxed (reward). Aside from changing bad habits, we can also use the habit cycle to create good habits. For example, when we come to an escalator (cue), our normal routine is to ride it, but we could change this routine into something more positive by taking the stairs instead.

Many of us try to change bad habits quickly, and if we are not successful straight away, we often become pessimistic and give up. In fact, the most successful way to change is not suddenly, but over a period of time. As the Chinese philosopher Laozi wrote, “A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.” One step seems small, but it is essential. To reach the goal of change, a person must show some discipline and repeatedly take many small steps. After all, it is not easy to break bad habits.

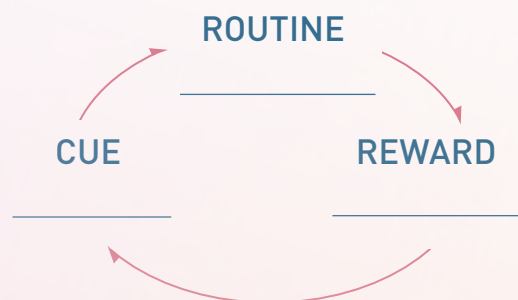

For young people, there is plenty of time to change bad habits. However, there is no “magic pill” or delete button that will help you; you have to think about your bad habits and decide on some changes. You have the power to build a happy and healthy life full of good habits!

3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 How can a choice lead to a habit?
- 2 What are the three stages of the habit cycle?
- 3 What should we do to change a bad habit?
- 4 How can a person use discipline to help change a bad habit?
- 5 Will you use the habit cycle to break your bad habits? Why or why not?

Write a letter to the editor about your lifestyle

- 1 Two students attended the summer camp organised by the magazine Healthy Life and wrote to the editor. Read the letters and then complete the table on page 21.

Dear Editor,

After I attended your summer camp about health and lifestyle choices, I realised I hardly ever felt well, either physically or mentally. I often felt sleepy and dizzy, and lacked passion. Most worrying, though, I got the flu easily and experienced many toothaches, too.

At the end of the camp I heard, “Change the world by changing yourself.” This stimulated my motivation. A dentist once examined me and told me that too much sugar in my meals had damaged my teeth and health. I made up my mind to change two things in my life: to eat nothing with sugar and to exercise regularly.

After that I stopped buying all the sweets, biscuits, and sugary drinks that I used to have every day. Whenever I went out with friends, I brought snacks from home, things that didn’t have any added sugar: fruit, nuts, dried meat, etc.

My exercise was very simple: I went outside every day for at least 30 minutes and did something active. Sometimes I played table tennis or badminton with my cousins. Other times I jumped on my skateboard and rode around my neighbourhood, or just took a long walk.

The results have been fantastic. I feel more dynamic and stronger than ever, in both body and mind. I sleep soundly at night now. I no longer suffer from a flu virus or toothaches either. Best of all, in my opinion, is how I feel about myself. I feel like I’m in control of my own life. To make choices about myself is within my own power. I CAN change myself. I just need to try.

Yours truly,
Wang Lu

Dear Editor,

As I took part in the summer camp about personal life choices, I started to analyse my choices, especially what I did to relax and how it was affecting my whole life.

After starting high school, I felt stressed out and always relaxed by playing computer games. I got so absorbed that I played the games day and night. Playing was fun, but I felt even more worn out afterwards! So after the camp, I realised that it was very, very important to adjust my lifestyle. I decided to take control of my life and find other ways to relax.

It was a big struggle not to join my friends in playing online games as I’m mad for them. However, I realised that to succeed in quitting, I had to replace it with something else. So I thought about what to try. Rock climbing, bowling, watching comedies, and playing basketball were the things I thought of doing instead.

Now my dad and I go rock climbing together monthly! It has enhanced the quality of my life, improving my health and increasing my happiness. I get refreshed through climbing, spend more time with my dad, and get to meet new friends.

After six months of trying out new ways of relaxing, I feel much more energetic. I feel that I can change myself for the better. And if that’s true for me, then it might truly be possible to change the world for the better. As Gandhi said, “Be the change you want to see in the world.”

Sincerely,
George Fielding

The specialist said my father should make a _____ plan to smoke less, otherwise he may need _____ in the future. I'm so glad my father agreed to make a plan to break his bad habit!

2 There are eight mistakes underlined in the passage. Correct them, read the passage again, and then give a title to it.

It is not easy to manage stress successfully. When you are stressed, every problem you have seems become worse. Serious stress can also lead to health issues, such as dizziness, skin conditions, and breathing problems. So that is best to find a solution as soon as possible. For minor stress, to wash your face with cold water or go for a short walk outside. To fight long-term stress, it is a great idea taken up a new hobby. Do something you really like—to ride a skateboard, go bowling, or watch a comedy—whatever stimulates your mind and makes you feel happy. Absorbing stress effectively, however, you must be sure to do something that completely takes your mind off everything else. If you can find something else to concentrate for a while, you will most certainly feel much more refreshed later on. So remember, to free yourself from stress, try and find something positive replace it with. After all, it is far too stressful to stress all the time!

Discuss climate change

1 Before you read, look at the graph and the picture below and discuss these questions in groups.

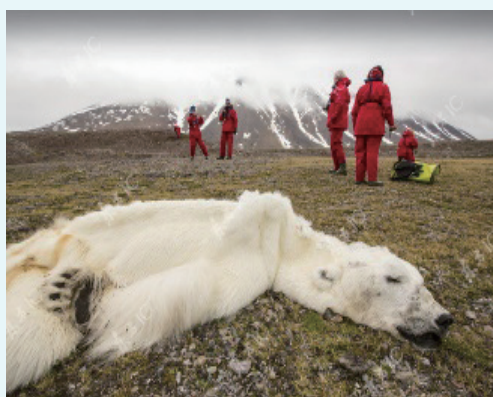

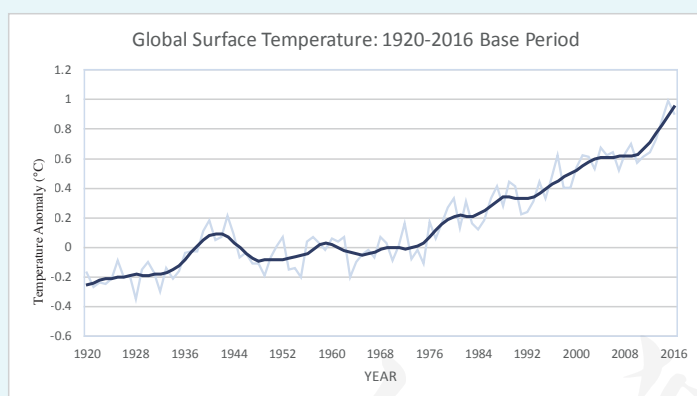

- 1 What is the graph about? What information can you get from it?
- 2 Have you ever seen the photo before? What might be the story behind it?

2 Read the text and answer the questions.

- 1 What happened to the polar bear in the photo? Why did the writer write about it?
- 2 Why is the “natural” greenhouse effect important and necessary?
- 3 What are the consequences of high greenhouse gas emissions?
- 4 Why did the author mention the climate scientists’ warning?
- 5 What is the author’s purpose of writing this text?

CLIMATE CHANGE REQUIRES THE WORLD’S ATTENTION

We have known about climate change for decades. There is little doubt that Earth is getting warmer and warmer (see the graph). A warming ocean and atmosphere along with melting ice and rising sea levels provide evidence of a dramatic change in the global climate.

In 2013, a lot of people were shocked by a news photo of a dead polar bear that was found on Norway’s Arctic island of Svalbard. According to the scientists who found its dead body, all that remained of the polar bear was “skin and bones”. An expert who has studied polar bears for many years said that from the position of its dead body, the bear appeared to have starved and died. Experts claimed that low sea-ice levels caused by climate change meant the bear could not hunt seals as before, so it had to travel greater distances in order to find food. This alarming case showed how the increase in temperature had an impact on Earth’s ecology.

Then what is causing the increase in the global average surface temperature? Climate scientists often mention a key climate process called the “greenhouse effect”, which has two common meanings: the “natural” greenhouse effect and the “man-made” greenhouse effect. The “natural” greenhouse effect refers to the fact that heat from the sun enters the atmosphere and warms Earth's surface as short-wave radiation. The heat is released back into space at longer wave lengths. Greenhouse gases in the atmosphere, such as methane and carbon dioxide, trap some of the heat, keeping Earth's climate warm and habitable. Without this process, Earth could not sustain life. However, the "man-made" greenhouse effect has now become a big problem. When people produce huge amounts of extra greenhouse gases by burning fossil fuels, more heat energy is trapped in the atmosphere and causes Earth's surface temperature to rise quickly.

There is strong and comprehensive evidence that the rise in temperature has led to an increase in extreme weather and natural disasters worldwide, not only causing serious damage, but also costing human lives. Climate scientists have warned that if we do not take appropriate actions, this warming trend will probably continue and there will be a higher price to pay. In fact, news reports are frequently broadcast about extreme rainstorms and heatwaves causing deaths and economic losses.

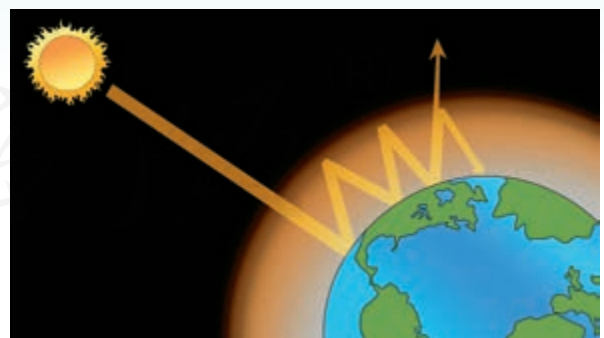

Continued greenhouse gas emissions will result in further warming and long-lasting changes to the global climate. This requires the attention of people all over the world. Governments need to consider making policies and taking appropriate actions and measures to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. We as individuals can also reduce our "carbon footprint" by restricting the amount of carbon dioxide our lifestyles produce. It is our responsibility to seize every opportunity to educate everyone about global warming, along with its causes and impacts, because this is the most serious issue affecting all of us on this planet. So what will you do to help?

3 Read the text again and create a diagram describing how the greenhouse effect works.

Draw a diagram

Diagrams are very useful tools that can be used to brainstorm ideas, map out processes, show cause and effect relationships, explain a new idea or concept, and so on. When you read an essay about scientific issues, you can try drawing a diagram, which will not only allow you to visualise the problems more clearly but also can help demonstrate your creative thinking and problem-solving.

4 Discuss these questions in groups.

- 1 What examples of extreme weather and disasters do you know? Can you make a list?
- 2 Do you think climate change is the result of human activity? Give your reasons.
- 3 Who do you think should take responsibility for dealing with climate change? What can we do?

Write a report on an environmental issue

1 Look at the title and the picture below and discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you know about the Li River? Have you ever been there?
- 2 What do you think might have caused water pollution in the Li River?

2 Read the report and then answer the questions.

REDUCING WATER POLLUTION IN THE LI RIVER

The beautiful Li River and its amazing surrounding scenery is one of the most well-known tourist destinations in China's Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region. It attracts millions of domestic and foreign visitors each year. However, its reputation as a top destination has had negative effects on the river's water quality. This report looks at the problem of water pollution and some actions that have been taken to deal with it.

Previously, water quality in the Li River had suffered greatly from an increasing volume of tourists, many of whom frequently threw garbage into the river. Many tour boats contributed to the problem too. Kitchens on board were using lots of oil, which was often thrown into the water. The growth in tourism also meant the local population rose rapidly, as well as the number of commercial and industrial enterprises. Water pollution levels increased, with more household and commercial waste ending up in the river. In order to feed more people, more chemicals were used to increase crop production. These chemicals led to severe water quality issues, causing a decrease in the number of fish species. Local officials were concerned that the pollution was damaging the natural environment and felt that urgent steps should be taken to restore the river's original beauty.

A comprehensive initiative was started, with a number of measures that addressed the issues. The construction of waste water treatment facilities improved the water quality and water conservation. The collection and transport of household waste was also improved. Dozens of polluting enterprises were closed or moved. The local government set up strict regulations regarding further industrial development. New rules were also introduced regarding tour boat routes and garbage disposal methods. Furthermore, the local authorities began to use the media to spread environmental awareness and encourage greater use of clean energy. At the same time, they started to carry out inspections regularly and fine tourist organisations for abuses. With these measures, it is believed that the beauty of the Li River will be preserved for generations to come.

In addition, the ambitious “Water Ten Plan” is also now tackling water pollution across the country. Other initiatives, such as the “River Chief System”, hold senior officials responsible for reducing water pollution. With such campaigns in effect, China’s waterways are heading towards a clean and sustainable future.

- 1 What were some of the negative effects on the Li River as a result of the growth in tourism?
- 2 What measures have been taken to improve the Li River’s water quality?
- 3 What is the “River Chief System”?

3 Study the organisation and language features.

- 1 Read the text again and complete the paragraph summaries.

Paragraph 1	Paragraph 2	Paragraph 3	Paragraph 4
Introducing the topic	Describing the _____	Presenting some _____	Presenting further _____

- 2 Draw a mind map to show all the factors that caused the pollution.

4 Use what you have learnt to write a report on an environmental issue.

- 1 Choose an environmental problem that directly affects you or your local community. Research the issue on the Internet. Consider the following questions:
 - What is the issue? Why does it need to be dealt with?
 - Where does the issue occur? What are its causes? What effects does it have?
 - What actions have been taken so far? What future actions are planned?
 - Has the issue been dealt with well? Is it likely to be solved completely? Why or why not? What alternative solutions are possible?
- 2 Write your report.

5 Exchange drafts with a partner. Use this checklist to give feedback on your partner’s draft.

- ✓ Does the writer describe the environmental issue clearly?
- ✓ Do the measures taken to deal with it sound effective?
- ✓ Does the writer use correct grammar, punctuation, and spelling?

However, he could not forget about an earlier time when his village had been struggling with a serious air quality problem.

In the 1990s, _____ from a nearby city was usually brought to the village. (2) "How can we make use of this?" the villagers wondered. Soon they found that garbage could be used to feed pigs. (3) "Over the next few years, _____ of pig farms were set up," Qi recalled. But then nobody in the village wanted to open their windows. (4) "The smell from the garbage and pig waste was making us sick," Qi said. The numbers of mosquitoes and flies were also horrifying. (5) "Under such circumstances, no single women wanted to marry anyone in our village and move here," Qi sighed.

The villagers could no longer tolerate the situation. So an _____ was launched and a "clean-up" campaign was added to the government agenda, including _____ large vehicles from passing through the village. Garbage from the city was no longer disposed of in the village, and more trees were planted. (6) "We can all breathe more freely now that the natural beauty of our village has been _____," said Qi.

REFLECTING

- ⊗ What new words and expressions have you learnt from this unit?
- ⊗ Can you report others' statements, requests, or questions fluently and accurately? If not, what are your difficulties?
- ⊗ What have you learnt about environmental issues from this unit?
- ⊗ What are you going to do to help solve the environmental problems we are facing?
- ⊗ Overall, I thought this unit was ☐ interesting ☐ useful ☐ so-so ☐ difficult.

* Project: Prepare an environmental proposal

1 In groups, discuss the following questions.

- 1 What is the main environmental issue you want to address? Choose one from the list below, or think of your own.

- Plastic bag waste
- Energy conservation
- Waste sorting system for recycling
- Water conservation

- 2 What small things can people do in their community to help? What simple inventions might help reduce the impact of the issue? Use the Internet to help you find ideas and take notes.
- 3 Will you give advice for people to follow? What is your advice?

2 Now create your project presentation. Use diagrams and illustrations to show how your ideas will work. Use the example below for ideas.

OUR PROJECT: SAVING ENERGY IN THE HOME

A lot of energy is wasted every day. We can make many small changes in our daily lives to help improve energy conservation. Here are our ideas for saving energy in the home:

- Take shorter showers
- Turn off the light when you are not in the room
- Instead of turning up the heat, put on more clothes
- Don't leave things like TVs and computers on standby
- Unplug appliances that are not in use
- Adjust the amount of water for toilet flushes
- Use cold water to wash clothes when possible
- Use energy-efficient light bulbs
- Put lids on cooking pots to cook faster

Following this advice can help reduce energy consumption and save money.

- 3 Now present your proposal to the class. Each member should take turns to explain or show one part of the presentation.
- 4 After hearing all the presentations, discuss which proposals and presentations were the best and give suggestions for improving them.

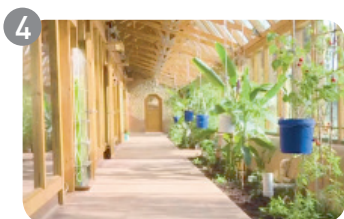

Green School in Uruguay

This video is about a green school in Uruguay that teaches its students about recycling, energy saving, and growing their own food. Built from recycled materials, the school produces no waste and is powered by solar panels.

A SUCCESSFUL FAILURE

Perce Blackborow joined an expedition with Sir Ernest Shackleton to Antarctica on the ship Endurance in 1914. Shackleton was one of the most famous explorers of his day and it was considered a great honour to be part of his expeditions. Below are some of Blackborow's diary entries.

31 Oct 1914

... Well, it so happened that one morning I bought a newspaper and read the advertisement about the Antarctic expedition.

An expedition to the South Pole with the great Sir Ernest Shackleton—this is the adventure that I have been dreaming of. And I was ready for it. At the age of 19, I am fit and full of vigour. However, when I applied to join the expedition, Shackleton turned me down because he thought I was too young and wasn't qualified. But I was so enthusiastic about the idea of going along with them that I secretly went aboard his ship, the Endurance, and hid in a small cupboard. Unfortunately, three days after we set off I was discovered. Shackleton did not want to turn back so he offered me a job, but only after he promised me, "If anyone has to be eaten, then you will be the first!" He assigned me to be a steward, and I now serve meals for twenty-eight men, three times a day.

How everyone will envy me when I come back and tell them about the amazing places I have been to!

21 Nov 1915

The journey has not been easy. Endurance became stuck in the ice as we approached Antarctica. The ice froze around us and we were well and truly stuck! We saw the ship get crushed by the ice. And when the ship sank, our hearts sank with it.

Before we abandoned the ship, Shackleton calmly called us together and told us to rescue our most essential supplies—the small boats, our food, the cook stove, candles, clothes, and blankets. This was no time to panic. We were not allowed to take most of our personal belongings, and Shackleton himself threw away all his gold. But to our surprise, he allowed Hussey to keep his banjo. Hussey often plays it to keep our spirits up.

We are now camped on the ice and we have been managing to survive, but spring is coming, and the ice will soon begin to melt.

Ernest Shackleton

20 May 1916

We have been struggling for days, but things on Elephant Island are going from bad to worse. We are now crowded together under one of our boats on the rocky shore of this miserable place. Soon after we arrived, Shackleton left us to find help on South Georgia Island, 1,320 kilometres away—the voyage was too dangerous and difficult for all of us to make it in our small boats. If Shackleton fails, will we have any hope of rescue? No. No navy in the world ever stops at Elephant Island, and no one else knows that we are here.

I feel low. It's cold and windy. The island has no plants. Sometimes we are able to catch a seal or a penguin to eat. Otherwise, there is no food. I try to think of happier things: decent food, warm and dry clothes, a cosy bedroom, sunny days, and my mother's face ... However, these happy memories are soon interrupted by a sudden cold rush of air.

I shouted, "Shut the door!"

"Hold on now, Perce. Don't you go turning into another Tom," came the reply. "We've caught another penguin, so it's penguin soup tonight!"

Bless Frank Wild, the kindest man there is after our leader, Ernest Shackleton. How could I become as selfish and bad-tempered as Thomas Orde-Lees!

Without Frank and Ernest, we'd all be dead by now. Their genuine concern for others, their perseverance, and their resolve fill me with hope.

Perhaps there is a chance we will return home, after all.

- 1 How did Blackborow come to join the expedition?
- 2 What happened to Endurance? What did the crew members have to do?
- 3 What did Shackleton do to make sure they could survive?

3 What do the highlighted words mean? Use your own words to explain them.

4 Read the text again and discuss the questions with your partner.

- 1 How did Blackborow's feelings about being on the expedition change as the days passed?
- 2 What personal qualities did Shackleton, Wild, and Blackborow exhibit? Find examples from the text to support your answers.

Learn about optimism and perseverance

- 1 This is a continuation of the story of Shackleton's men who were left on Elephant Island. In pairs, predict what happened to the crew members. Then read the memoir below to see if your predictions were correct.

THE REWARD FOR PERSEVERANCE

We watched as Shackleton and the boat sailed away from Elephant Island. It was easy to imagine the danger ahead of them. Would they ever return to find us? What might happen to them? What if they were delayed? We felt so alone and desperate. But it was not for long. There was nothing like a good dinner and some music to cheer us up.

Life fell into a regular pattern. Staying alive took all our time and energy. For example, we needed water, and Elephant Island had none. We found that we could melt ice from the ocean and drink the water from it. But how could we make fire? There were no trees growing on Antarctica and no oil, so the only fuel we could use was animal fat. This gave off oily, black smoke, but it stayed burning even in strong winds.

Food was also a problem, as we did not find any vegetables or fruit on the island. One of our group members, Lionel Greenstreet, noted in his diary about how bored he was with the meals: "The food now is pretty well all meat of sea creatures." If it weren't for sea animals, we would all starve. As a chef, it was my duty to cook, so I tried to vary the meals in whatever way I could. But it was difficult.

We had to be careful not to go outside too often, as the changing temperatures could make us ill. It was almost as dangerous to become too hot from wearing too many clothes as to become too cold from wearing too few. The sweat could freeze very quickly. Many of us also became ill from the black smoke of the animal fat we burnt for our fires. It damaged our eyes and burnt our lungs.

Point Wild, where Shackleton's men were rescued in 1916

The twenty-two of us lived like this in the cold for four months. Our discipline and team spirit kept us optimistic and helped us deal with our fears in a positive and successful way. We also celebrated our birthdays, festivals, and even the times when we caught a sea animal. This was an episode in my life that I would never forget.

When we were finally rescued, we felt such relief and joy that many of us could not hide our tears. We were at last free to go home to warm beds, good food, and the care of our family and friends. Our optimism and faith in Shackleton had helped us persevere in staying alive. And he paid us back by his commitment to save us from a slow but painful death.

2 Read the text again and answer the following questions.

- 1 What did the men eat and drink on the island?
- 2 What were the dangers of living on the island?
- 3 How did the men stay in good spirits while waiting to be rescued?
- 4 What do you think were the key reasons for their survival?
- 5 If you were one of the men on Elephant Island, would you have trusted Shackleton? Why or why not?

3 Based on the diary entries and the memoir you have read, write an essay about the story of Shackleton and his men on the ship Endurance.

- 1 Read the story again and think about the following questions. Make notes with your answers.
 - How does the author describe Shackleton and his crew members?
 - What kind of relationship did Shackleton have with his crew?
 - What struggles did they face?
 - What were the motives for their actions?
 - What did you like most about the story?
- 2 Begin your essay with a brief summary of the story. Remember to include who, what, where, when, why, and how.
- 3 Use your notes and cite examples to explain what you think about the characters.
- 4 End your essay by talking about how the story made you feel, and give your overall impressions of the expedition and the men who went on it. Explain why you feel this way.

4 Exchange drafts with a partner. Use the checklist to give feedback on your partner's draft.

- ✓ Does the essay contain the main points in the story?
- ✓ Is the essay written in the writer's own words?
- ✓ Does the writer give his/her opinion about the story?
- ✓ Does the writer present his/her ideas clearly by using linking words and phrases?

5 Get your draft back and revise it. Then put up your essay in your classroom or read it to the class.

Antarctic Challenge

In 1996, author and mountain climber Jon Krakauer attempted to climb Mount Qomolangma. While he was successful in his climb, the mountain was hit by bad weather that day, and eight other climbers—some of his good friends—were killed. Less than a year later, Krakauer and five other men attempted to climb Mount Rakekniven in Antarctica.

UNIT 5 POEMS

Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less travelled by,
And that has made all the difference.

— Robert Frost

In this unit, you will

- 1 read a brief introduction on some simple forms of English poems.
- 2 listen to a discussion about poetry and talk about how to write poems.
- 3 write your own poems.
- 4 explore the characteristics of different forms of poems and learn to appreciate English poems.

Look and discuss

- 1 Do you understand the poem lines in the photo? Can you use your own words to explain them?
- 2 When you think of the words “poem” or “poetry”, what comes to mind?

Appreciate different forms of English poems

1 Before you read, discuss the questions with your partner.

- 1 Compared with other forms of literature such as the novel, drama, and the short story, what are the characteristics of poetry?
- 2 Why do you think people write poems?

2 Read the text and complete the table on page 51.

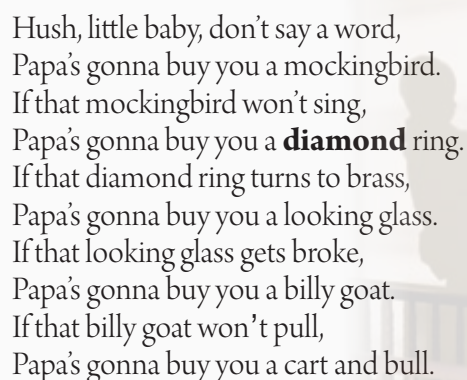

A FEW SIMPLE FORMS OF ENGLISH POEMS

There are various reasons why people compose poetry. Some poems tell a story or describe a certain image in the reader's mind. Others try to convey certain feelings such as joy and sorrow. The distinctive characteristics of poetry often include economical use of words, descriptive and vivid language, integrated imagery, literary devices such as similes and metaphors, and arrangement of words, lines, rhymes, and rhythm. Poets use many different forms of poetry to express themselves. Now we will look at a few of the simpler forms.

Some of the first poems a young child learns in English are nursery rhymes. They are usually the traditional poems or folk songs. The language of these rhymes, like Poem A, is to the point but has a storyline. Many children enjoy nursery rhymes because they rhyme, have a strong rhythm, and often repeat the same words. The poems may not make sense and even seem contradictory, but they are easy to learn and recite. By playing with the words in nursery rhymes, children learn about language.

One of the simplest kinds of poem is the "list poem", which contains a list of things, people, ideas, or descriptions that develop a particular theme. List poems have a flexible line length and repeated phrases which give both a pattern and a rhythm to the poem. Some rhyme (like B and C), while others do not.

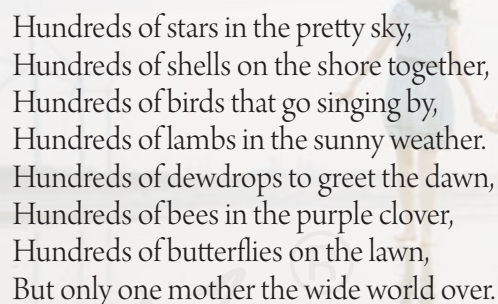

A

Hush, little baby, don't say a word,
Papa's gonna buy you a mockingbird.
If that mockingbird won't sing,
Papa's gonna buy you a diamond ring.
If that diamond ring turns to brass,
Papa's gonna buy you a looking glass.
If that looking glass gets broke,
Papa's gonna buy you a billy goat.
If that billy goat won't pull,
Papa's gonna buy you a cart and bull.

B

Only One Mother

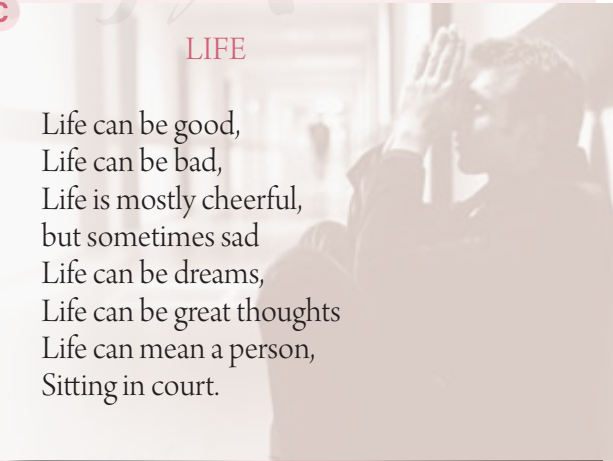

Hundreds of stars in the pretty sky,
Hundreds of shells on the shore together,
Hundreds of birds that go singing by,
Hundreds of lambs in the sunny weather.
Hundreds of dewdrops to greet the dawn,
Hundreds of bees in the purple clover,
Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn,
But only one mother the wide world over.

George Cooper

C

LIFE

Life can be good,
Life can be bad,
Life is mostly cheerful,
but sometimes sad
Life can be dreams,
Life can be great thoughts
Life can mean a person,
Sitting in court.

Another simple form of poem that amateurs can easily write is the cinquain, which is made up of five lines. With these, you can convey a strong picture or a certain mood in just a few words. Look at the example (D).

Haiku is a Japanese form of poetry that consists of 17 syllables. It has a format of three lines, containing 5, 7, and 5 syllables respectively. It is not a traditional form of English poetry, but is very popular with English writers. It is easy to write and, like the cinquain, can give a clear picture and create a special feeling using very few words. The haiku poem (E) on the right is a translation from Japanese, which shows a moment in the life of a delicate butterfly.

English speakers also enjoy poems from China, those from the Tang Dynasty in particular. A lot of Tang poetry has been translated into English, such as this one (F).

With so many different forms of poetry to choose from, you may eventually want to write poems of your own. Give it a try!

D

Brother
Beautiful, athletic
Teasing, shouting, laughing
Friend and enemy too
Mine

E

A fallen blossom
Is coming back to the branch.
Look, a butterfly!

F

Where she awaits her husband
On and on the river flows.
Never looking back,
Transformed into stone.
Day by day upon the mountain top,
wind and rain revolve.
Should the traveller return,
this stone would utter speech.

Wang Jian

Poetry comprehension

Poems paint pictures with words through the use of figures of speech and metaphors, so to understand a poem fully, you have to imagine in your mind the picture the poem is painting. Further, the sounds, rhythm, and rhymes in a poem give it a musical quality. Poems often have to be read aloud, and with feeling, to be really understood and enjoyed.

Type of poem	Characteristics	Example	Topics and poetic devices
Nursery rhyme	• concrete but creative language	A	• love between father and baby • rhymes, repetition
List poem		B
		C
Cinquain		D
Haiku		E
Tang poem		F

3 Listen to the recording of the text and read aloud the poems.

Review useful structures

1 Connect the sentences using relative pronouns or adverbs. Then put the sentences in the correct order to compose a passage.

- 1 The Crescent Moon is perhaps the most famous collection of children's poems. It is known to people in China.
- 2 There are also many poems written from a child's perspective. In these poems the poet Tagore shows a sympathetic understanding of children's feelings.
- 3 The English version of the book contains nearly 50 poems. The focus of the poems is on the parent-child relationship.
- 4 The initial poems were written from the perspective of a mother. The mother loves her baby at play and at rest, in laughter and in tears.
- 5 Many people love to read this collection of poems. The reason is that they can feel the warmth of love and enjoy the innocence of childhood.
- 6 It was written by the Indian poet Tagore. Tagore was the first Asian to win the Nobel Prize in Literature.

2 Read the following introduction about the Brownings. Help the author edit the passage to make it more concise, using relative clauses if necessary.

If you study the history of English literature, you will find the names of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning. They were one of the most romantic literary couples of the Victorian era. Elizabeth Barrett started to write poetry from about the age of six. In 1844, Elizabeth's Poems brought her great success. It also attracted the admiration of poet Robert Browning. Browning fell in love with her poetry and then they entered into personal correspondence. The couple exchanged many letters. These letters obviously helped sow the seeds of love between the two. Elizabeth had been ill for many years. She stayed at home and almost never saw visitors. Browning was sure about his love, so he found a way to visit her, and immediately convinced her to become his bride. However, their subsequent marriage was carried out in secret. It was because Barrett's father was a dominant and selfish man. He would refuse to let his daughter go. The couple moved to Italy in 1846. Elizabeth lived there for the rest of her life. Browning had a great influence on Elizabeth's writing. The best evidence that can be found is Sonnets from the Portuguese. The sonnets were written during the time when she was in love with Robert Browning.

3 Work in pairs. Describe your favourite Chinese poets using sentences that contain relative clauses.

EXAMPLE Bai Juyi was one of the greatest Chinese poets who ever lived. He was born during the mid-Tang Dynasty, which was a period of rebuilding and recovery for the Tang Empire.

Talk about attending a poetry contest

1 Before you listen, discuss the following questions with your partner.

- 1 Have you ever written a poem before? If so, what did you write about?
- 2 What might inspire you to write poems?

Use your prior knowledge

If you come across a topic you are familiar with, you can think about what you already know about it before you listen. Using prior knowledge will make it easier for you to predict what you will hear. This will also reduce your anxiety and help you better understand the conversation while listening.

2 You are going to listen to a conversation between a teacher and her students about a poetry contest. Listen to Part 1 and answer the questions.

- 1 When is the deadline for the poetry contest?
- 2 What does Nora mean by saying that she needs time to polish her writing?
- 3 Why doesn't Pitt want to enter a poem contest?
- 4 What does George plan to do?

3 Listen to Part 2 and find out how the students will inspire themselves to write poetry.

George: _____

Nora: _____

Pitt: _____

4 Listen to the two parts again and tick the expressions you hear that are used to praise and encourage somebody.

5 Work in groups. Discuss entering a poem contest like the one in the listening section. The expressions in Activity 4 and the following questions may help you.

- 1 What kind of poem are you going to write?
- 2 What are the topics you would love to write about?
- 3 How will you inspire yourself to write the poem?
- 4 Will you use rhyming words in your poem? Why?

Read poetry aloud

Poetry should always be read aloud, as that is when you can hear the music of the words. When reading poetry aloud, start slowly. Find and emphasise the rhythm of the words. Begin to think about how the poem makes you feel—happy, sad, in love—and read the poem with emotion, pouring out your feelings.

o Pronunciation

Listen and practise reading the following poems aloud. Pay attention to the rhyming words and the rhythm of the poems.

THE ARROW AND THE SONG

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterwards, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

H. W. Longfellow

NIGHT

The sun descending in the west,
The evening star does shine;
The birds are silent in their nest,
And I must seek for mine.
The moon, like a flower,
In heaven's high bower,
With silent delight,
Sits and smiles on the night.

Farewell, green fields and happy groves,
Where flocks have took delight.
Where lambs have nibbled, silent moves
The feet of angels bright;
Unseen, they pour blessing,
And joy without ceasing,
On each bud and blossom,
And each sleeping bosom.

William Blake

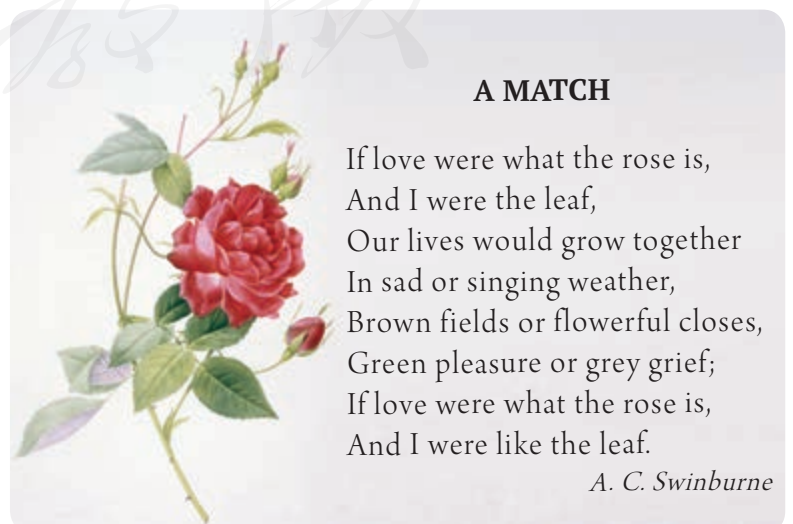

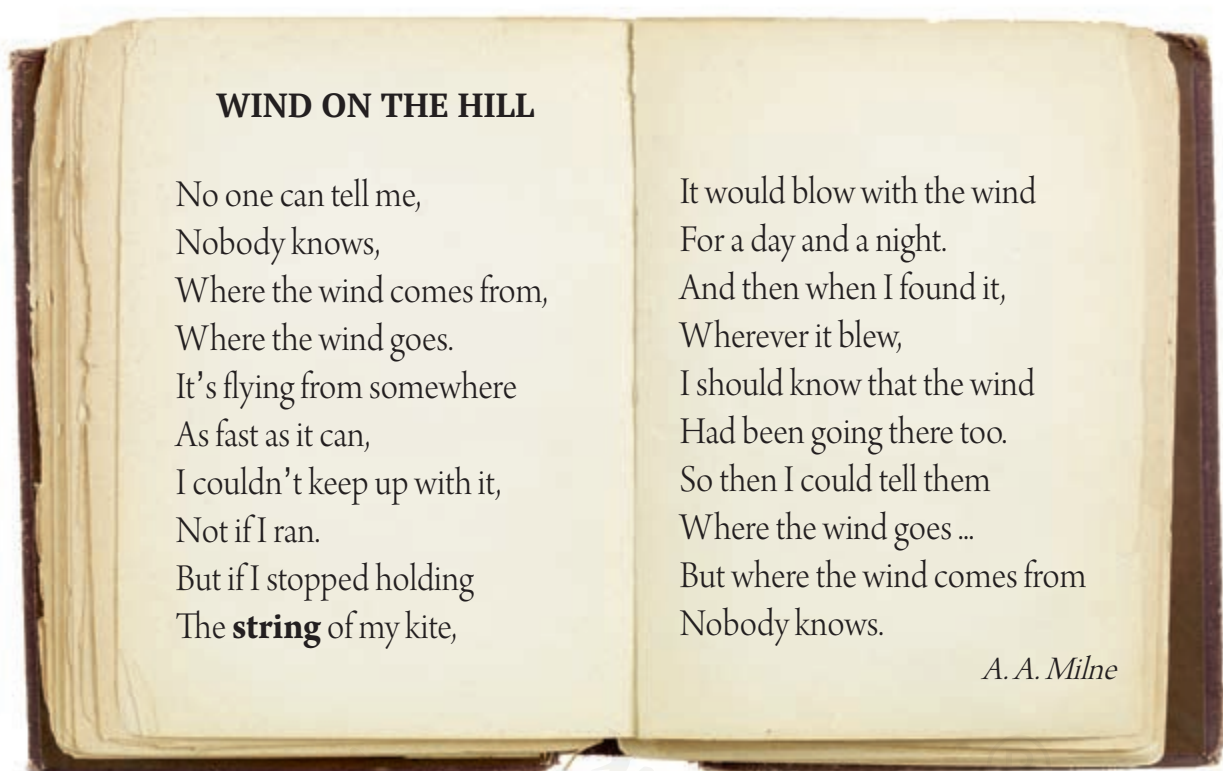

Write a poem

- 1 Before you read, discuss how to understand a poem with your partner. Make a list of questions that the readers should consider while reading poems. The following points may help you.

- Subject
- Images
- Tone
- Rhythm and sounds
- Feelings and emotions
- Rhetorical devices

-  2 Read the poems below and then complete the table.

Information	Wind on the Hill	Dream	A Match
Subject
Images
Rhyming words
Rhetorical devices

- 3 Choose one of the poems and write a short essay about it. The following example may help you.

The poem Dream by Langston Hughes is very short with only 8 lines. When I read the poem aloud I can hear that the ends of the second and fourth sentences rhyme—“die” and “fly”. The last word from the sixth and eighth sentences also rhyme—“go” and “snow”. These rhyming words sound nice and make the poem pleasing to read.

When I close my eyes, I can see different images from the poem. For example, I can see two hands being held. I can see a bird flying in the sky. I can see a field and I can imagine what it looks like with lots of snow. I start to feel cold when I read these lines!

I learnt a new phrase, “hold fast”, which means to hold onto something. “Barren” is also a new word to me, which means empty.

I think the poet is giving us advice. He wants us to keep dreaming, because life is much better when we dream and have something to look forward to.

- 4 Write your own poem by following these steps.

- Start with the theme first. Ask yourself, “What message do I want to give to the reader? What is important to me?”
- Next, think about the words and phrases you would like to use. Make a list of words related to your theme.
- Then check how well your details paint a picture in your head. Now write the poem. Read it aloud and listen to how it sounds.
- Finally, give it a title. Now your poem is ready!

- 5 Work in groups. Take turns to read aloud your poems and then have a discussion on what you think they mean. Give your personal opinion or advice based on what you have learnt from this unit.

- 6 Read aloud your poem to the class or put it up in the classroom.

Assessing Your Progress

1 Complete the passage using the correct forms of the words in the box.

Poetry probably had its origins in traditional folk music tens of thousands of years ago. In that _____, there were no TVs or films, and writing had not been invented, so people would sit around the fire at night and sing songs to entertain themselves. These songs reflected themes from the people's daily lives, such as hunting animals or _____ crops. Since nothing was written down, over the years different _____ of these songs developed, and each area would have its own _____ rhythm. In addition to this, people would _____ stories of past heroes. As these stories were often quite long, they often had _____ and rhythm to help people remember them more easily. While in the beginning such songs and stories had a very simple _____, over time they became more complicated and more polished. These were no longer the works of _____ sitting around a fire, but works of true poets who cared about their art and who sometimes made a living from it.

2 Read the conversations below and write a short description about the poetry or the poet they are talking about. Use relative clauses to connect your sentences.

A: What is free verse?

A: I see. So it means the poet has complete control over their creation.

A: Who was Langston Hughes?

B: He was a famous African-American poet.

A: What's special about his poems?

B: Well, his poems mainly tell the story of black people in America, including their joys and pain.

A: Can you give me an example?

Reading and Writing

- 1 Read the passage and write questions for the answers below. The first has been done for you.

THE STARRY NIGHT

Perhaps my favourite painting is The Starry Night, by Vincent van Gogh (1853–1890). Born in the Netherlands, Van Gogh had always been interested in art, and tried to live as a professional painter starting from 1883. His early work was dark and sad, so in 1886 Van Gogh's brother Theo invited him to come to live in Paris. Theo hoped that the bright colours of the Impressionist movement there would influence his work. Van Gogh moved to the south of France in 1888. Later that year, he suffered a mental collapse and went to live in a hospital. He made more than twenty paintings of the view from his hospital window, during all times of the day and all kinds of weather. However, he only made one painting of the scene at night. As Van Gogh wrote to his brother Theo in June, 1889, "This morning I saw the countryside from my window a long time before sunrise, with nothing but the morning star, which looked very big." The "morning star" Van Gogh referred to was actually the planet Venus. Van Gogh had longed to paint a night scene, and the sight of Venus inspired him.

On the left side of The Starry Night, there is a large tree which shoots up from the ground like a dark fire. It reaches all the way to the top of the painting. In the background are rolling hills, with a small village in a valley. In the centre of the village is a white church. Its tower points up into the sky like a sharp knife. Here and there, you can see houses with windows shining with yellow light. Above all this is dark blue sky. A quarter moon fills the top-right corner of the painting with yellow. Venus sits low near the tree. It burns with white light. Here and there in the sky above Venus are yellow, orange, and red stars. Around these are lines of pure paint in different shades of blue, yellow, and white. They flow out of control, like river rapids.

The Starry Night is not a realistic painting of the scene Van Gogh saw out of his window. For example, in real life there is no village in that valley. However, perhaps the painting shows the deeper reality of what Van Gogh could see with his mind's eye. Though the scene is dark and quiet, the painting is full of light and life. It gives us a look, perhaps, into the complex mind and genius of Van Gogh.

- 1 When did Vincent van Gogh decide to try to live as a professional painter?

In 1883.

- 2 _____ ?

Van Gogh's early work was dark and sad.

- 3 _____ ?

*Expanding Your World

MICHELANGELO'S DAVID

Most people agree that one of the greatest statues ever made was Michelangelo's David, in Florence, Italy. David was a hero in the Bible. As a young boy, he fought and killed a giant, Goliath (歌利亚), using only a sling and a small rock, inspiring his army to victory.

The Florence Cathedral first decided to have the statue made in 1464 to stand on its roof, along with statues of other heroes from the Bible. Consequently, they purchased a block of white marble more than 5 metres in length and 6,000 kilograms in weight. Over the years, two different sculptors attempted to work on the statue. However, both gave up, complaining that the marble was of poor quality. Worse yet, it appeared that the last sculptor had ruined the marble by cutting a huge hole in it for the gap between David's legs. The hole had an odd shape, and left very little material on either side to work with. Everyone thought it would be impossible to carve the statue's legs properly, and that they would be too thin—unable to hold the weight of the rest of the statue.

Thus, for 25 years, the marble lay in the yard of the cathedral's workshop with no one working on it. In 1501, the cathedral invited many artists, including Leonardo da Vinci, to come and work on the project. All of these artists declined. Finally, Michelangelo (1475–1564) took on the challenge. At 26 years old, Michelangelo had already completed his other great sculpture, the Pieta, and was making a name for himself as a great artist.

For more than two years, Michelangelo worked on David day and night, rain and shine, until it was completed. No one knows exactly how David was made. Michelangelo refused to let others see him work or see his artwork until it was completed. Michelangelo's friend Giorgio Vasari claimed that Michelangelo made a small model of the sculpture, laid it on its back, and then covered it in water. Michelangelo then took away some of the water until a bit of the model appeared, and carved that bit into the marble. He continued doing this, little by little, until the sculpture was finished. This was what Vasari claimed, but this was just a guess: Michelangelo kept his methods a secret from everyone, even Vasari. Indeed, years after he carved David, Michelangelo was working on another work of art, deep into the night. Vasari tried to sneak in to see Michelangelo at work. However, as soon as Michelangelo realised that the door had been opened, he quickly blew out the candles so that the room became dark and his visitor could see nothing.

When Michelangelo finally revealed his statue to the people of Florence, everyone was amazed. They knew at once that it was the greatest work they had ever seen. Not only was it a beautiful work of art, it was different from all other statues of David ever made. Unlike other statues of David, which showed him as a little boy wearing armour, Michelangelo's David was a naked young man. Other statues always showed David after the battle. Michelangelo's David is before the battle, looking ahead in confidence, with his sling across his shoulder. He shows no fear of his enemy, and he is already looking ahead to victory.

Many people have noted that while the statue is called David, it does not remind them of a hero in the Bible. Rather, it looks like one of those statues of Greek gods that are regarded as some of the greatest works of art ever produced. Nevertheless, anyone seeing the statue for the first time would probably agree that his David is an extraordinary masterpiece.

One fascinating thing about the statue is how imperfect it is, yet how perfect it seems. David stands with his left foot forward, and all his weight is on his right foot. Given how narrow his legs are and how much he leans to his right, one would think that the statue would break or fall over, yet it still stands more than 500 years later. David's head and hands are also larger than they should be. In fact, his right hand is enormous. Finally, the statue is quite narrow from front to back—by proportion much narrower than most people are in real life. This is due to the fact that the marble was too narrow to begin with. Yet, somehow, even when viewed from the side, the statue still works and still looks realistic. Everything looks perfect, even if it is not.

Those who first saw the statue certainly thought that it was perfect. Indeed, they thought the statue was too good to go on top of the cathedral where people would have trouble seeing it. In truth, even if they had decided to put it on top of the cathedral, given its weight, they had no way to lift it that high. Indeed, they were not sure how they could move it from the workshop yard without breaking it. Finally, after great effort and much care, they moved the statue to the main square of the city. There, it quickly became a symbol of the city of Florence. The people were all inspired by the way David looked ahead without fear of the future. However, in time, the statue became damaged by rain, snow, and wind. In order to protect the statue from further damage, in 1873 it was moved inside to the Gallery of the Academy in Florence, where today it is visited by up to three million people a year.

These days, the attitude of many people is to just eat food that they think tastes good. However, this can lead to an unbalanced diet, which often results in short-term and long-term health issues. If you want to stay healthy, then you need a balanced diet. Needless to say, it is not always easy to plan such a diet, but the good thing is that there is a lot of advice out there.

To save yourself some time, you could try looking at a "food pyramid"—a chart that shows you how much of each type of food to eat. You could also make healthy food at home and try to avoid eating packaged foods or fast food. It is essential for you to eat healthy food. You will feel better, have more energy, and have fewer health problems in later life.

MY EXPERIENCES WITH COMPUTER GAMES

I clearly remember the first time I played a computer game. I was seven years old. My friend had gotten a computer for his birthday. He invited me to play a game, which was very simple by today's standards, but we loved it! We played for hours. We would meet after school every day to play it. My addiction to computer games started then. Not long after that, my friend moved to the city. I missed him, but I got my own computer and began playing by myself.

Over the years, computer games developed rapidly. Technology improved, and there were always new and better games to play. You could then play games over the Internet with people from all over the world, using either computers or smartphones. The online games were fascinating and it was always exciting to play.

At first, I played games over the Internet after I had done my homework and eaten dinner. Then I started playing as soon as I got home each day. My parents stopped me, so I started playing it in the middle of the night. I went to school and often fell asleep in class. My teacher would scold me but I would often do the same thing the next day! Shortly after that, I began to skip meals and play through the night. My parents found out and took away my computer and smartphone. I knew I had gone too far. My love of computer games had become an addiction. It was affecting my schoolwork and my health, and I felt quite depressed.

Then one day I bumped into my friend again! He had moved back to our hometown. We hadn't seen each other for ages. He looked happy and healthy. We talked about the past and the good times we had, playing that old game. He still played computer games, but he also did many other things. He invited me to play basketball with some friends. I got tired quickly, but I loved it! Afterwards, we played a board game. We laughed and talked and played for hours. It was very sociable and great fun. Playing games with my friends in real life was much more enjoyable than doing so online.

Computer games are great fun and I still play them sometimes. New technology is making more amazing things possible. I've learnt that some games can even teach us to train our brains to solve problems. However, games can also be addictive, so balance is important for a healthy lifestyle. We can spoil good things by doing them too much. Now I enjoy playing games even more because I am able to maintain a good balance between work and play.

2 Read the passage again and answer the questions below.

- 1 How did the writer's love for computer games begin?
- 2 Why did the writer's parents take away his computer and smartphone? Do you think they were right? Why?
- 3 Why do you think the writer felt tired after playing basketball?
- 4 According to the writer, what is more fun than playing games online?
- 5 What did the writer learn by recovering from his game addiction?

3 Match the paragraphs with their main ideas. Then choose sentences from the text that give more details.

4 Discuss these questions in groups.

- 2 Can parents reliably control how much their children play computer/mobile games? If so, how? Please talk about your own or others' experiences.

5 Write a leaflet to warn other students about the risks of becoming addicted to computer games and mobile games. Share your leaflet with your class.

*Expanding Your World

Little Women, written by Louisa May Alcott and published in 1868, is a famous American novel. The story follows the lives of the March family. While the father is working away from home, the mother has to look after their four teenaged daughters—Meg, Jo, Beth, and Amy—on her own.

Louisa May Alcott

THE EXPERIMENT (adapted from Little Women)

"Vacation, finally!" exclaimed Meg, coming home to find Jo already lying on the sofa.

"What will you do on your vacation?" asked Amy.

"Stay in bed late, and do nothing," replied Meg.

"Sit in the old apple tree and read!" said Jo.

"Beth, let's not do any lessons for a while, but play all the time and rest, like Meg and Jo," begged Amy.

"I will, if Mother doesn't mind. I want to learn some new songs," replied Beth.

"May we all try what we want to do, Mother?" asked Meg.

"You may try your experiment for a week and see how you like it," Mrs March said with a smile.

"It will be wonderful, I'm sure," said Meg.

"Fun forever, and no work!" exclaimed Jo.

The next morning, Meg got up at ten o'clock and had breakfast alone. Jo spent the morning with a friend and the afternoon reading in the apple tree. Beth pulled all her toys out of her closet but then left them to play some music. Amy put on her best dress and went outside to draw, hoping someone would notice the beautiful young artist. No one appeared, so she went for a walk, got caught in the rain, and came home dripping.

In the evening, they all assured their mother the experiment was going well. She smiled, said nothing, and did her work, keeping their home pleasant and running smoothly.

The days became longer and longer, and it affected all four girls. Meg found time hanging heavily and started cutting and spoiling her clothes, trying to make them more fashionable. Jo read till her eyes hurt and she was sick of books. Beth sometimes suddenly shook her doll and shouted at it. Amy was quite bored, for she didn't like dolls or reading, and she couldn't draw all the time. But no one would admit that they were tired of the experiment.

On Saturday morning, the girls got up to find no breakfast in the dining room and no mother to be seen.

Meg ran upstairs and soon came back, looking relieved but a little ashamed.

"Mother isn't sick, only very tired. She says she is going to rest today and let us do the best we can. She says it has been a hard week for her, so we must take care of ourselves."

The girls put together a breakfast tray for their mother and Jo brought it up to her. The tea was very bitter, the eggs were burnt, and the biscuits tasted odd, but she thanked them for their kindness.

"They will have a hard time, I'm afraid, but they won't suffer, and it will do them good," she said to herself after Jo left, taking out the breakfast which she had prepared for herself earlier.

Meg went to tidy the living room, hiding the litter under the sofa and shutting the curtains to save her the trouble of dusting.

Jo went to ask their mother about lunch. "Eat whatever you like," said Mrs March. "I'm going out to lunch. I'm taking a vacation today."

And so Jo discovered that something more than energy and effort is necessary to make a cook. She boiled the vegetables for an hour, burnt the bread, found only a small bit of meat in the lobster, and then declared lunch ready before the potatoes were quite done. The girls and their two guests sat down to lunch.

The one strong point was the strawberries, for Jo had covered them in sugar and had a jug of cream to go with them. Amy took a big spoonful and choked.

"What's wrong?" exclaimed Jo.

"Salt, not sugar, and the cream is sour," replied Meg.

Jo was about to cry, when suddenly she realized how funny it all was. She laughed till the tears ran down her cheeks. So did everyone else, and the lunch ended with bread and butter and fun. They were then busy for the whole afternoon, tidying and cleaning, as well as receiving guests and running errands.

In the evening, the girls gathered on the porch. Each girl groaned or sighed as she sat down.

"What a dreadful day this has been!" began Jo.

"It has seemed shorter than usual, but so uncomfortable," said Meg.

"Not a bit like home," added Amy.

"Not without Mother," sighed Beth.

"Here I am, dear. Are you satisfied with your experiment, girls, or do you want another week of it?" she asked.

"I don't!" cried Jo.

"Nor I," echoed the others.

"Mother, did you go away just to see how we'd get on?" said Meg.

"Yes, I thought you should see what happens when everyone thinks only of herself. Isn't it pleasanter to have daily duties and then relax? To help each other out, so home is comfortable for us all?"

"Oh yes, Mother!" exclaimed the girls.

"Our little burdens seem heavy but will grow lighter as we learn to carry them. Work keeps us from boredom and mischief, is good for health and spirits, and gives us a sense of power and independence better than money or fashion. But remember, don't go to the other extreme and work like slaves! Have regular hours for work and play and make each day both useful and pleasant. Then youth will be delightful, old age will bring few regrets, and life will become a success, whether you're rich or poor."

SMALL WASTE, BIG PROBLEM

Many of us might not give a second thought to dropping a small piece of litter. After all, if it is so small, it cannot possibly be that harmful, can it? In today's world, the answer is certainly "Yes it can!" With the growing use of plastic bags and the rising number of smokers, there is more litter being produced than ever before.

Although cigarette butts are small, they are bad for the environment. Worldwide, about 4.3 trillion cigarette butts are littered every year. As well as spoiling the beauty of the environment, they contain toxic chemicals. These find their way into the water supply where they affect water quality and endanger plants and animals. Cigarette butts can take up to 25 years to break down, and the toxic chemicals add up to a large amount with so many littered. So, if people want to smoke, they should dispose of the butts properly in a rubbish bin.

Plastic bags are another common form of litter that is dangerous to the environment. They are easily blown by wind and float in water, so they can travel long distances. They find their way to rivers, parks, beaches, and oceans, killing many birds, mammals, fish, and sea animals each year worldwide. They can last for hundreds of years in the environment. We should not let plastic bags become litter. We should use fewer plastic bags, and reuse and recycle what we have already used.

One way to reduce the use of plastic bags is to charge for them. Shops used to give plastic bags for free. But in some countries, including China, customers are now charged for each bag. Some shops also have a “bag-for-life” scheme. They sell stronger bags that can be reused, and they replace them for free if the bags ever break.

Waste is a big problem for the environment, so we need to do something. Not littering at all or cleaning up “small waste” saves money spent on disposing of litter properly. However, it would be better not to smoke or use plastic bags at all.

*Expanding Your World

A CLEAN, GREEN ENERGY FUTURE

The world's energy needs are growing every year. As countries develop and their populations grow, the demand for the energy to support them increases. Until now, this growth has relied heavily on the use of fossil fuels (coal, oil, and gas). Although their use has been essential so far, reliance on them has led to pollution problems, and perhaps the greatest future challenge for mankind, climate change.

Thankfully, many countries are making the important change from fossil fuels to clean, green, and renewable sources of energy. Fossil fuels produce emissions, such as carbon dioxide, which contribute to the greenhouse effect and the global climate. They are also “finite” sources, which means there is a limited supply of them. Once a source has been used up, another must be found, and finding new sources becomes more difficult and expensive over time. With no emissions or waste, renewable energy sources cause limited damage to the environment. They are renewable because they can be naturally replaced and can therefore be consumed without the risk of using them up.

Here are the main types of renewable energy, with facts and examples from around the world.

Hydropower

The power of water turns turbines which produce electricity. Since ancient times, watermills have been used for many things, from grinding wheat to sawing timber. Countries such as Paraguay and Norway already produce all or most of their energy from hydropower. Most of the renewable energy in China comes from hydropower plants, such as the Three Gorges Dam, the world's largest power station.

Solar

Solar panels turn heat from the sun's rays into electricity, and solar heaters use that energy to heat water directly. This is the fastest growing renewable energy source, as the cost of the technology is falling.

Germany has the highest solar capacity in the world, but China is the world's largest market and the largest producer of solar technology.

Wind

Tall turbines are turned by the wind to produce electricity. Wind “farms” are built on land, or offshore, to take advantage of more frequent and powerful winds at sea. The world’s largest wind farm is the London Array. It has 175 wind turbines and is 20 km off the coast of England. Researchers think China could meet all her electricity demands from wind by 2030. Wind farms in provinces such as Gansu have an endless wind supply.

Geothermal

This has been a natural source of energy for thousands of years. Today, heat from below the earth’s surface heats water into steam that turns turbines to generate electricity. The USA has the largest capacity, with over 80% generated in California. The Yangbajing Power Plant is the largest geothermal plant in China.

Biofuel

This is material from biological sources (such as corn or grain) or waste products that is used to produce energy. It is used in generators for electricity, or in cars and other machines. Brazil has produced and used biofuel made from sugar cane for 40 years. China is the world’s third largest producer of biofuel.

So, what are the pros and cons of renewable energy?

The strongest “pro” is that it is clean, producing almost no pollution. Resources are abundant and free, and cannot be used up. Projects, once set up, require less to maintain. They are ideal on a small scale; one can have solar panels on the roof, but not a coal power station in the kitchen! It is also better for energy security. Getting resources from within the country means less reliance on resources from abroad, and less risk from political or economic changes.

There are also some “cons”. With no wind or sun, there may be no power. Projects are built in places where resources are abundant, but often far away from the cities where power is needed. Solar projects are expensive to set up. Hydroelectric projects can cause problems with flooding when they change the natural flow of rivers. Biofuel projects use up land, which could be used for growing food.

Can renewables really be the future of energy? Our modern world has been built on fossil fuels, so it is hard to change quickly. However, the use of renewable energy is growing in China and around the world. Given the problems of climate change, there is little doubt that they will continue to grow. As extracting fossil fuels is becoming more difficult and expensive, the cost of renewable energy is falling. New battery technology, for example, solves the problem of bringing electricity from distant sources to cities. Along with our being more aware of our energy consumption and waste, a clean, green energy future is possible and necessary.

Reading and Writing

- 1 Read the passage about a famous person in ancient China and find out what adversity he faced.

FAN ZHONGYAN

Perhaps one of the most famous sayings in China is, “To be the first to feel concern for the troubles of the world, and the last to enjoy its pleasures.” Written by Fan Zhongyan, this 11th century proverb provides a goal for all Chinese government officials to aspire to.

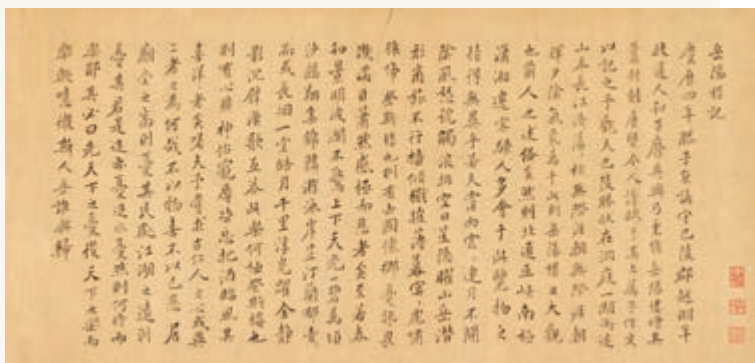

Fan Zhongyan (989–1052) himself was a good example of someone who lived by these words. Fan was born in Suzhou in 989 CE. When he was just one or two years old, his father died and his mother married another man. From a very young age, he was very diligent in his schoolwork. Later, he left his stepfather’s family and had to stay in a temple, where he was only able to eat porridge each day. In the winter, he had to cut frozen porridge into pieces for his meals. It is said that one day one of his friends noticed that he was not eating well, so he sent over some tasty food. Fan refused to touch it, saying that he wanted to be content with what he had.

In 1015, Fan passed the imperial examination and became a government official. While he served in Taizhou, he always had the people’s best interest at heart, and so he proposed building a sea wall to protect homes from flooding. This sea wall was later called “Lord Fan’s Embankment”. Serving with distinction, he helped build up defenses when the country was threatened by war. Then, once the country was at peace again, he was promoted to a high-level position in the capital, where he was able to advise the emperor on government policy.

As an advisor to the emperor, Fan then tried to institute government reforms, known as the Qingli reforms. However, many conservative bureaucrats opposed him, and so the reforms were stopped and Fan was forced to leave the capital and go into exile.

While in exile in 1045, Fan wrote an essay entitled Memorial to Yueyang Tower. In the essay, he wondered if it was possible to find government officials who would be firm in their desire to look after the needs of the common people, and not worry about their own personal welfare. Of such a man, Fan said, “When serving in a high office at court, he will be concerned for the people; if living on distant rivers and lakes, he will be concerned for his sovereign. When serving, he worries; while in retirement, he worries. And when does he enjoy himself? One must say: To be the first to feel concern for the troubles of the world, and the last to enjoy its pleasures.”

After Fan retired, he bought a farm and used it to provide jobs for local people. The profits from the farm were then used to pay for the education of poor children. Though by this time he was a wealthy man, he spent all of his money helping others and lived a very simple life.

It is refreshing to think that there was once such a person who did not just speak wise words to live by, but who also put those words into practice during his own life. Fan Zhongyan was just such a man.

AN EXCERPT FROM THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA (adapted)

Ernest Hemingway

Blood attracted the shark from deep down in the sea. Suddenly, he was on top of the blue water, shining in the sun. Then he fell back into the sea and started swimming in the direction of the skiff and the fish.

Sometimes he lost the scent of the fish. But when he picked it up again, he swam hard in that direction. He was a big Mako shark who swam as fast as the fastest fish in the sea, and everything about him was beautiful, except his jaws. His back was blue like a sword fish, his belly was silver, and his thick skin was smooth and handsome. He looked like a sword fish except for his huge jaws. Just under the surface you could see his fin moving quickly through the water. Inside his jaws all of his teeth were shaped like claws. They were long and sharp on both sides. The shark is so fast and strong that he is king of the sea. Now he smelled a fresh scent and swam quickly through the water.

When the old man saw him coming, he knew that this shark was not afraid. He prepared the harpoon and some rope as the shark approached. The rope was short as he had cut some away before to tie the fish.

The old man's head was clear now and he was ready, but he was not hopeful. I can't win, he thought. He watched the great fish come closer. This might be a dream, he thought. I cannot keep him from hitting me but maybe I can get him.

The old man saw the shark's mouth open and take a bite of the fish just above its tail. The shark's head and back came out of the water and the old man could hear the noise of skin and flesh ripping when he pushed the harpoon down onto the shark's head between his eyes. That was the location of the brain and the old man hit it using all his strength. Despite this, he worried that this was not over yet and that things might still get worse.

The shark turned over again and again, wrapping himself in the rope. The old man knew that he was dead but the shark would not accept it. Then, on his back, with his tail lashing and his jaws clicking, the shark plowed over the water. Three-quarters of his body was clear above the water when the rope broke. The shark lay quietly for a little while on the surface and the old man watched him. Then he went down very slowly.

"He took about forty pounds," the old man said aloud. He took my harpoon too and all the rope, he thought. And now my fish bleeds again and there will be other sharks soon.

He did not want to look at the damaged fish anymore. When the fish had been hit, it felt like he was hit.

But I killed the shark that hit my fish, he thought. And he was the biggest one that I have ever seen. And God knows that I have seen big ones.

I knew I could not catch the shark, he thought. I wish it had been a dream now and that I had never caught the fish and was alone in bed reading newspapers.

"But man is not made for defeat," he said. "A man can be destroyed but not defeated." I am sorry that I killed the fish though, he thought. Now I do not even have a harpoon to protect myself. The shark is cruel, strong, and intelligent. But I was more intelligent than he was. Perhaps not, he thought. Perhaps I only had a better weapon.

"Don't think, old man," he said aloud. "It's time to sail home."

But I must think, he thought. Because it is all I have left. That and baseball. I wonder how the great DiMaggio would have liked the way I hit the shark in the brain? It was no great thing, he thought. Any man could do it.

"Think about something cheerful, old man," he said. "Every minute now you are closer to home. You sail lighter now for the loss of forty pounds."

He knew this part of the current could be dangerous. But there was nothing to be done now.

"Yes, there is," he said aloud. "I can tie my knife to the bottom of one of the oars."

So, he did that.

"Now," he said. "I am still an old man. But I do have a weapon."

The breeze was fresh now and he sailed on well. Some of his hope returned.

EXPLORING POETRY IN CHINA

Poetry plays with sounds, words, and grammar. That makes poetry difficult to write but very interesting to read. Poetry uses colours, feelings, experiences, and images to paint a picture in your mind.

In Chinese classical poetry, the form is very important: the correct number of lines and the number of characters in each line. Poetry often follows special patterns of rhythm and rhyme. However, modern poets began to reject traditional forms and structures for poetry in the 20th century. As a result, most poetry today is written in free verse, with lines of varying length.

During the Tang Dynasty, a high point of classical Chinese poetry, poems by Li Bai, Du Fu, and Wang Wei became very popular. Widely known as a genius and often called the “Immortal Poet”, Li Bai (701–762) wrote with a romantic style and his poems celebrated things such as friendship, nature, and wine. Du Fu (712–770) is also known as one of the greatest Chinese poets. He has been called the “Poet-Historian” and the “Poet-Sage” by Chinese critics, and his poems cover a range of topics, with his most famous poems reflecting on the effects of war on the people. Wang Wei (701–761) was a painter, musician, and poet, and he was well known for his love of nature in his paintings and poetry.

Outside of Asia, the study of Chinese language introduced the West to Chinese poetry. Americans were first introduced to classical Chinese poetry by American poet Ezra Pound (1885–1973). He translated 18 classical Chinese poems, mainly by Li Bai, into English, based on the notes of the American art historian Ernest Fenollosa (1853–1908). At about the same time, Chinese writers started reading more foreign poetry. From around 1910 onwards, European literature came to China when some famous writers began to translate both poetry and novels into Chinese.

Just like readers in the West, Chinese readers admire Shakespeare, John Milton, Alexander Pope and many others for their fine English poetry. English Romantic poets are greatly loved in China. The nature poems by William Wordsworth, Ode to the West Wind by Percy Bysshe Shelley, George Gordon Byron's Isles of Greece, and long poems by John Keats have long been favourites. The style and the atmosphere in their poems have often led to comparisons with poets such as Du Fu and Li Bai. Among modern poetry, the American poet Robert Frost and his poems might be the best known.

Today, many Chinese people are becoming more interested in reading poems, no matter in what language they are written. Translations can be good, but being able to read in the original language is best. No matter how well a poem is translated, something of the spirit of the original work is lost. Besides, poems and literature can be bridges between East and West. They can help us to understand each other better, or as the poet Mu Dan wrote:

*Quietly, we embrace
In a world lit up by words.*

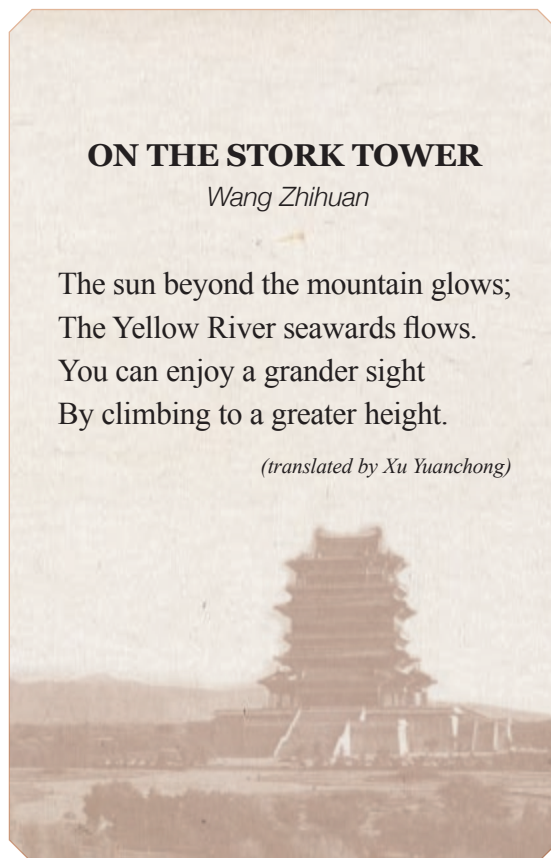

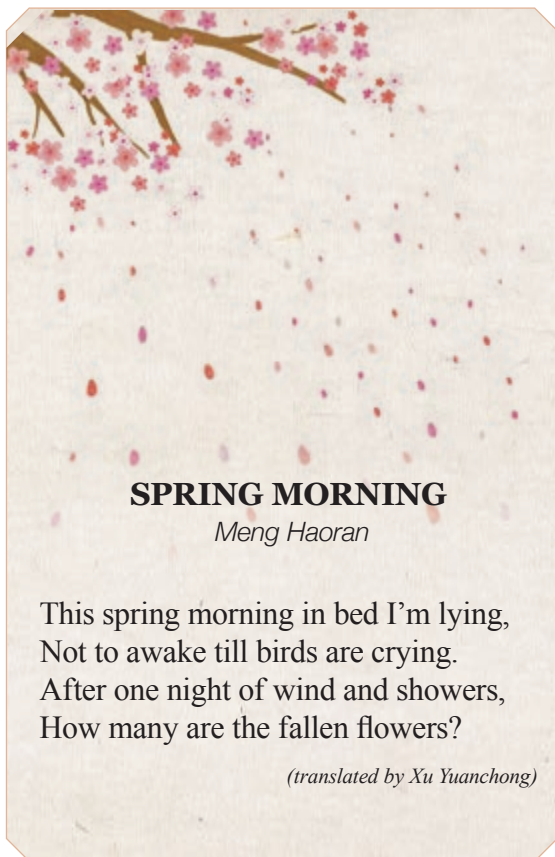

2 Discuss the questions with your partner.

- 1 How has foreign poetry influenced Chinese poetry? Find the clues from the text to support your opinion.

THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;
Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Robert Frost

THE GIFT

I want to give you something, my child, for we are drifting in the stream of the world.

Our lives will be carried apart, and our love forgotten.

But I am not so foolish as to hope that I could buy your heart with my gifts.

Young is your life, your path long, and you drink the love we bring you at one draught and turn and run away from us.

You have your play and your playmates. What harm is there if you have no time for thought for us?

We indeed, have leisure enough in old age to count the days that are past, to cherish in our hearts what our hands have lost for ever.

The river runs swift with a song, breaking through all barriers. But the mountain stays and remembers, and follows her with his love.

Tagore

ON CHILDREN

Your children are not your children.

They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself.

They come through you but not from you,

And though they are with you yet they belong not to you.

You may give them your love but not your thoughts,

For they have their own thoughts.

You may house their bodies but not their souls,

For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow,
which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams.

You may strive to be like them,

but seek not to make them like you.

For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday.

You are the bows from which your children
as living arrows are sent forth.

The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite,
and He bends you with His might
that His arrows may go swift and far.

Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness;

For even as He loves the arrow that flies,

so He loves also the bow that is stable.

1 The Middle Ages 中世纪

中世纪也称作Medieval times/period, 是指欧洲从罗马文明瓦解起到文艺复兴运动之间的大约1,000年左右。这一时期, 宗教教会统治严酷, 艺术局限于为宗教服务, 成为基督教的象征性再现, 体现于教堂建筑在艺术及工程设计所取得的传世成就, 如拜占庭教堂、罗马式教堂、哥特式教堂, 以及与宗教相关的雕刻、绘画等。这一时期的艺术作品也偶有世俗内容的体现。

2 Their works were often primitive and two-dimensional, and the main characters ...

他们的作品通常较为粗糙且二维化, 主体人物……

dimension意为“维”, 又称“维度”, 系几何学及空间理论概念, 也是绘画、构图的基本概念之一。构成空间的每一个因素, 如长、宽、高各自称作一维。直线是一维的, 平面是二维的, 普通空间(立体)属于三维。

3 Giotto di Bondone (1267–1337) 乔托·迪·邦多纳

乔托是意大利文艺复兴初期的画家、雕塑家、建筑师, 被誉为“欧洲绘画之父”。乔托的作品, 突出人物和形象的自然性, 画作富有景深视觉效果, 栩栩如生, 为同时代绘画杰出楷模, 在绘画艺术史上产生了深远的影响。

4 The Renaissance 文艺复兴时期

文艺复兴是欧洲新兴资产阶级在意识形态领域开展的反封建、反教会神权的一场思想文化运动。13、14世纪酝酿并逐步兴起于意大利, 15世纪末叶扩展至其他欧洲国家, 16世纪达到顶峰。它从意识形态领域各方面冲击封建教会束缚, 提出并建立起人文主义世界观, 即反对教会的“神性”, 肯定人的价值和尊严。这是一段科学和艺术的革命和变革时期, 这一时期的绘画艺术受到人文主义思想的影响, 绘画技法得以创新发展, 艺术家在人体表现、景深、色彩、动作形态表现以及形象布局等诸多方面有巨大的发现和创新。

5 Masaccio (1401–1428) 马萨乔

马萨乔是意大利文艺复兴时期的重要画家。他的一生虽然短暂, 但在西方美术史上却占有重要的地位, 他在画作中运用了透视法, 极大地提升了绘画作品的真实性和可观赏性。

“透视法”(the use of perspective)为美术理论术语, 指科学地利用线条或色彩在平面上表现立体空间的方法。这一美术理论概念是文艺复兴的产物, 马萨乔在其画作中最先体现这种透视关系, 形成概念, 后经达·芬奇等画家发展完善, 形成完整的理论体系。

6 Influential painters such as Leonardo da Vinci (1452–1519), Michelangelo (1475–1564), and Raphael (1483–1520) built upon Giotto and Masaccio's innovations to produce some of the greatest art that Europe had ever seen. 一些颇具影响力的画家, 例如莱昂纳多·达·芬奇、米开朗琪罗和拉斐尔, 在乔托和马萨乔的创新基础上继续发展, 创作出欧洲前所未见的一些最伟大的艺术作品。

达·芬奇、米开朗琪罗和拉斐尔是文艺复兴时期三位最为杰出的美术家, 在西方美术史上是划时代的里程碑式人物, 有“文艺复兴美术三杰”之称。

达·芬奇, 意大利艺术家、学者、发明家。他自幼刻苦钻研科学, 在天文、地理、力学、数学、解

剖学、植物学等领域成就卓著，在技术方面也有许多重大发明和革新。达·芬奇是一位博学全才，尤其在艺术领域的贡献最为突出，他建立了完整的绘画理论，其画作如《最后的晚餐》(The Last Supper)、《蒙娜丽莎》(Mona Lisa) 等，居意大利文艺复兴时期最优秀的艺术作品之列。

米开朗琪罗，意大利雕塑家、画家、建筑家、诗人。他所塑造的人物形象具有力量和健美完美结合的特点，表现出雄浑壮伟的英雄精神。他的艺术作品，如《大卫》(David) 雕像、西斯廷礼拜堂的壁画，鲜明地体现了人文主义思想和现实主义与浪漫主义相结合的特征，是意大利文艺复兴鼎盛时期的代表作。

拉斐尔，意大利画家。他绘有大量壁画，擅长塑造圣母形象。他的画作，如《雅典学院》(School of Athens)，表现出纯真优美、庄重自然、明快清晰、和谐简洁的古典美术品质。他优雅的人物描绘和画面构图技巧一直影响到20世纪初期的艺术家。

7 While painters as early as Da Vinci had used oil, this technique reached its height with Rembrandt (1606–1669), who gained a reputation as a master of shadow and light. 尽管早在达·芬奇时代，一些画家就使用油彩绘画，但伦勃朗使得这种技艺达到顶峰，他拥有“光影大师”的雅称。

此句 while 为“尽管；虽然”之意，相当于 although，引导让步状语从句，是连词 while 的基本用法之一。例如：

While I like you personally, I don't think you are doing the right thing this time. 尽管我喜欢你，但我认为这一次你做得不对。

While the news, so far, has been good, there may be days ahead when it is bad. 虽然到目前为止好消息不断，但未来的日子里或许会有坏消息。

伦勃朗，荷兰画家，是欧洲17世纪最伟大的艺术家之一。他擅画肖像、人物风俗、宗教历史题材画作。伦勃朗擅长灵活独到地处理复杂画面中的明暗光线对比，用光线强化画中的主要部分，也让暗部去弱化和消融次要因素，从而令画作传递出强烈的戏剧效应，形成独具个性的画风。其代表作有《夜巡》(The Night Watch) 等。

8 Impressionism 印象主义（画派）

印象主义，兴起于19世纪60年代的法国，是西方绘画史中的重要艺术潮流运动，也被视为一个独立的绘画流派。画家们受当时不断进步的光学理论和其他科学领域的启发，在用色上突出光线的反差对比，注重绘画中光线明暗的表现和创新尝试。这一流派的典型特点是画作个性鲜明，从自然取材，重要的不是表现主题，而是力求再现在一瞬间光从物体表面反射到眼睛的实际印象。这一流派的代表人物有莫奈、雷诺阿、马奈、毕沙罗、西斯莱等。

莫奈 (1840—1926)，法国画家，西方绘画印象派的创始人和领袖，也是印象主义艺术大师中最具影响力的人物。他擅长光影表现技法，他用光影和色彩描绘出自己时代世界的迷幻和浪漫，创作出一系列色调丰富、观察力新颖、富有人生乐趣的风景画。其代表作有《印象·日出》(Impression, Sunrise)、《圣拉查尔火车站》(La Gare Saint-Lazare)、《睡莲》(Water Lilies) 等。

雷诺阿 (1841—1919)，法国印象派重要的代表人物。除一些风景画作外，雷诺阿以描绘人物著称，尤其是女性和孩童。他的画作多以阳光和鲜亮的色彩给观者带来愉悦的感受，向人们展现着世间美景和人间的友善和温暖。他的代表作有《船上的午餐》(Luncheon of the Boating Party)、《煎饼磨坊的舞会》(Dance at the Moulin De La Galette) 等。

impressionism 一词由 impression 和后缀 -ism 构成。名词后缀 -ism 相当于汉语的“主义；论；说；派；性”。例如：capitalism 资本主义、modernism 现代派、humanism 人性等。

【思考】你还知道哪些带有后缀 -ism 的名词？它们分别表示什么意思？

9 ink wash animation film 水墨动画电影（水墨动画片）

水墨动画片是我国艺术家和电影制作者共同努力，将国画传统绘画技艺与现代动画电影形式相结合的创举，在我国乃至世界美术及影视艺术领域都具有划时代的意义。这个动画艺术新品种诞生于上世纪60年代初期，上海美术电影制片厂经过一年多的精心努力，制作完成世界上第一部水墨动画片《小蝌蚪找妈妈》，该片根据方惠珍、盛璐德的同名童话改编，取材于国画大师齐白石绘画的鱼、虾等形象。影片获得国内外一致好评，成为我国动画电影的里程碑。该厂后续还制作了《牧笛》《山水情》等水墨动画电影，获得国内外广泛赞誉。

10 Also of primary note is a collection of nearly 100 bronze objects from the Shang Dynasty (1600 BCE–1046 BCE). 同样十分重要的（看点）是一组近百件商代（公元前1600年—公元前1046年）青铜器藏品。 of note是习语。如果人们说某人或事“of note”，则是表达此人或此事十分“重要；有趣”或是“值得关注；值得一提”。例如：

Nothing of note happened that day. 那天没什么重要的事发生。

He had already designed some buildings of note by then. 那时他已经设计出一些颇具影响力的建筑物了。

11 This is just a small taste of what is in store for you in this exhibition. 这只是该展览供您参观的一小部分。

此处，taste是“经历；感受；体验”的含义。taste作这种用法时，经常用作单数，形成较为固定的短语a taste of。例如：

The trip aims to provide the children with a taste of the countryside first-hand. 这次旅行旨在让孩子们亲身感受一下乡村。

This became his first taste of acting for the big screen. 这成为他登上大银幕的初次演出体验。

此句的in store (for somebody) 是习语，表示“某事即将发生”，英语相当于“about to happen”。例如：Who knows what lies in store for us? 谁知道前面有什么等着我们呢？

There is a real treat in store for everyone this weekend! 这个周末有好事等着大家呢！

Unit 2

1 For example, some of them may become involved in tobacco or alcohol abuse, which can lead to physical and mental health problems. 例如，有些青少年会沉溺于烟酒不能自拔，造成生理和心理健康问题。 tobacco or alcohol abuse意为“过度吸烟或饮酒”。abuse此处意为“（无节制的）滥用；妄用”，既可以用作名词又可以用作动词。例如：the abuse of power 滥用权力、abuse one's position to do sth 滥用职权做某事。再如：

The leader has been arrested for the abuse of power. 这位领导人因滥用权力而被捕。

She abused her position as principal by giving jobs to her friends. 她滥用校长职权，把工作安排给她的朋友们。

abuse还有“虐待”之意，作名词和动词皆可。如：

Measures have to be taken to stop animal abuse. 必须采取措施禁止虐待动物。

2 There is a famous saying based on the philosophy of Aristotle: “We are what we repeatedly do.” 有一条基于亚里士多德哲学思想的著名谚语说道：“重复的行为造就了我们。”

亚里士多德（Aristotle），古希腊人，世界古代史上伟大的哲学家、科学家和教育家，堪称希腊哲学的集大成者。他是柏拉图的学生。他有一句名言：“吾爱吾师，吾更爱真理。”

- 3 To facilitate a positive change in our bad habits, we must first examine our bad habit cycles and then try to adapt them. 想要促使不良习惯朝着积极的方向转化，我们必须首先审视自己的坏习惯循环，然后尽力去调整。

文中 adapt 和 adjust 都可以表示“调整；使适应”的意思，常见用法为 adapt/adjust sth to do sth。如：

It may be necessary to adjust/adapt your ideal to make it more practical. 你需要调整你的理想，让它更实际。

而 adapt/adjust to sth 的用法表示“适应（环境、形势）”。如：

It certainly takes time to adjust/adapt to new rules. 适应新规则当然需要时间。

- 4 I feel more dynamic and stronger than ever, in both body and mind. 我感到身体和精神都比以前更富活力，更加强健。

After six months of trying out new ways of relaxing, I feel much more energetic. 用了六个月尝试新的放松方式后，我感到精力充沛多了。 dynamic 和 energetic 都可以形容人有活力，但前者更强调精神上“有活力、有思想、有创意”，而后者更强调体力上“精力充沛”。dynamic 还可以表达某物、某地、某种关系有活力。如：

I am very happy to join this young and dynamic team. 我非常高兴加入这个年轻、有活力的团队。

The dynamic economy in this region has greatly improved people's living standard. 这个地区活跃的经济极大地提高了人民的生活水平。

Once she steps on stage, she becomes extremely energetic. 她一站上舞台，就变得活力四射。

另外，dynamic 还常可以表达“动态的”含义。如：

The policy-making process is dynamic and flexible. 决策过程是动态和灵活的。

- 5 Now my dad and I go rock climbing together monthly! 现在我和爸爸每个月都一块去攀岩。

monthly 是由名词 month 和后缀 -ly 构成，在此处是副词，意思是“每月”。monthly 有多种词性，可以用作副词，也可以用作形容词（“每月的”，如：monthly pay 月薪）和名词（“月刊”）。类似的词还有：daily、weekly。

【思考】你还知道哪些“名词 + -ly”的单词，它们的词性是什么？表达什么意义？

- 6 As Gandhi said, “Be the change you want to see in the world.” 正如甘地所说，“欲变世界，先变其身。”

甘地（1869—1948），印度现代民族解放运动的著名领袖，也是印度伟大的民族英雄。以倡导非暴力不合作运动闻名于世，不仅激励了印度人民奋起争取民族解放，也鼓舞了其他殖民地国家的人民争取民族独立、民权和自由。甘地一生著述颇丰，他的很多观点富含哲理。

Unit 3

- 1 greenhouse effect 温室效应

由于地球大气的作用很像是一个玻璃或塑料温室的屋顶和墙，温室效应因此而得名。地球的大气允许大量阳光通过并加热地面。地球以红外辐射的形式发射热能返回大气中。由于大气中某些气体能吸收它，许多辐射热能不能自由进入太空，它们变得温暖并发射红外辐射返回地球，再次使地表变暖。这些气体被称为“温室气体”，主要包括水汽（water vapor）、二氧化碳（carbon dioxide）、甲烷（methane）等。它们的作用是使地球表面变得更暖，类似于温室截留太阳辐射，并加热温室内空气。

2 Previously, water quality in the Li River had suffered greatly from an increasing volume of tourists, many of whom frequently threw garbage into the river. 以往，漓江的水质因游客量的增长遭到了严重破坏，一些游客频繁将垃圾扔入江中。

volume 作为名词，常用来表达“数量”意义，其数量概念大多与体积、容积有关；也与整个物体的移动过程有关，常表达流量、吞吐量、消耗量、工作量等，例如 the volume of rain water、so much volume of traffic、the volume of work 等。再如：

We have been so surprised by the volume of rain water this summer, which has been much more than when we first moved here. 我们对今年夏天的降雨量感到很吃惊，（今年的雨量）可比我们刚搬到这里时大多了。

How can the city government control such a large volume of traffic? 市政府怎样才能控制这么大的交通流量？ volume、quantity 和 amount 都可以表示“数量”概念，但三者在实际的使用中略有差别。quantity 表达“数量；数额”等含义时，用以说明事物“多少”的问题，常和 large、enormous、high 以及 small、limited、minimum 等程度形容词连用组成短语。这种表达数量的短语既可以修饰可数名词也可以修饰不可数名词，例如：a large quantity of water、a limited quantity of services 等。amount 可以用作动词，意为“总计；共计”；也可以作名词，用来表达“总量”或“数量”之意义，常用来修饰不可数名词。例如：the amount of money、a massive amount of time、huge amount of food、the amount of your investment 等。再如：

All enrolled students can have access to a large quantity of books in the library. 所有注册的学生都能接触到图书馆里大量的书籍。

We guarantee to return the original amount of your investment if everything goes well. 如果一切顺利，我保证还你投资的本金。

3 Water Ten Plan 水十条

全称为《水污染防治行动计划》，最早叫“水计划”，因为要与已经出台的“大气十条”相对应，改为“水十条”。由环保部所属环境保护部环境规划院牵头编制，2015年2月中共中央政治局常务委员会会议审议通过，4月16日正式发布。“水十条”旨在通过在污水处理、全面控制污染物排放等多方面进行强力监管和启动严格的问责制，改善全国水环境质量，实现生态系统的良性循环。

4 River Chief System 河长制

河长制，即由中国各级党政主要负责人担任“河长”，负责组织领导相应河湖的管理和保护工作。河长制经水利部推广已经在全国许多省市落地。河长制的推行使诸多地区的水环境得到了明显改善，给严峻而复杂的水环境治理带来了曙光。

5 In addition, the ambitious “Water Ten Plan” is also now tackling water pollution across the country. Other initiatives, such as the “River Chief System”, hold senior officials responsible for reducing water pollution. With such campaigns in effect, China’s waterways are heading towards a clean and sustainable future. 另外，“水十条”的宏伟规划则是为了治理整个国家的水污染问题。例如“河长制”这样的举措，还将减少水污染作为高级官员的责任。实际上，随着这些行动（的展开），中国的水资源正朝着洁净的、可持续发展的未来迈进。

这一段话先后出现了三个表述“计划”或“方案”的词：plan、initiative、campaign。plan 一词可以理解为“计划；条目”；initiative 一词可以理解为“新方案；倡议”；而 campaign 则可以理解为“运动；行动”等含义。三个不同的词语使用不仅可以增强表达的丰富性，而且可以使句子衔接更为紧密。

【思考】你能根据这三个词的不同含义分别写出不同的句子吗？

Unit 4

1 A SUCCESSFUL FAILURE 一次成功的失败

这个标题使用了矛盾修辞法 (Oxymoron), 这种修辞手法是将两个意义上相互矛盾或排斥的词放在一起使用, 以表面上不协调的搭配造成某种特殊的表达效果。又如:

No light, but rather darkness visible. 与其说是亮光, 不如说是能看得见的黑暗。

The state of this house is a cheerless welcome. 房子里是一种冷清的欢迎气氛。

2 Perce Blackborow joined an expedition with Sir Ernest Shackleton to Antarctica on the ship Endurance in 1914. 珀西·布莱克博罗于1914年加入欧内斯特·沙克尔顿爵士的“坚忍”号南极探险之旅。

Perce Blackborow 珀西·布莱克博罗 (1896—1949), 威尔士水手。他因在“坚忍”号船上的服务表现获得了“青铜极地勋章” (Bronze Polar Medal)。

Ernest Shackleton 欧内斯特·沙克尔顿 (1874—1922), 英国极地探险家, 曾带领英国探险队三次前往南极洲, 是南极探险英雄时代的主要人物之一。课文内容描述的就是他第三次带领探险队赴南极探险 (1914—1917) 的故事, 虽然最终没有到达原定的目标, 但是沙克尔顿与“坚忍”号船员们在极地700多天的求生经历, 创造了20世纪一次伟大的生还奇迹。这一真实的探险故事, 不仅催生出不少相关的文学作品, 还被拍摄成纪录片和电影。同时, 沙克尔顿作为领导者的智慧和才能, 常被各类经营管理类课程与书籍列为经典案例。

3 The ice froze around us and we were well and truly stuck! 冰把我们周围都冻住了, 我们彻底被卡住了!

well and truly 意为“完全地; 彻底地”。例如:

The party was well and truly over by the time he arrived. 他赶到时聚会已经完全结束。

I'd rather not make any big purchases until we are well and truly out of debt. 在我们完全摆脱债务之前, 我宁愿不买任何大件东西。

4 “Hold on now, Perce. Don't you go turning into another Tom,” came the reply. 传来一声回答: “要坚持住啊, 珀西。你可不要变成另一个汤姆。” hold on 可以表示“等一等; 坚持住; 继续”。例如:

Hold on. I'll be ready in just a moment. 稍等, 我马上就好。

We just had to hold on until help arrived. 我们必须坚持住直到救援到来。

We've got to go now. We can't hold on any longer. 我们得离开了, 不能再等了。

Now hold on, Ed, that wasn't what we agreed at all! 你等一下, 艾德, 咱们说好的可不是这样的!

此处的 Don't you go ... 是一个祈使句, 意思是“你可不要……”。其后的 came the reply 是倒装句, 这种倒装句式常出现在描绘人物对话的情节中, 尤其是在文学作品中, 其目的是为了使叙述更加连贯、生动。例如:

“You are very much older than I am,” said Winston. 温斯顿说: “你比我年长多了。”

5 There was nothing like a good dinner and some music to cheer us up. 没有什么比得上一顿好饭和一点儿音乐能让我们振作起来了。

there is/was nothing like ... 是用来表达赞美的常见句型, 意思是“没有什么比……更……”。例如:

There's nothing like a holiday to make one feel relaxed. 没有什么比得上假期更让人放松的了。

【思考】你还学过哪些与 nothing 相关的常用短语或句型吗? 请举例说明。

Unit 5

- 3 The language of these rhymes, like Poem A, is to the point but has a storyline. 这些童谣（如诗歌 A）的语言简单明了，但带有故事情节。

to the point 是习语，意思是“简明恰当；简洁中肯”。例如：

I think his advice is very much to the point. 我认为他的建议很中肯。

We don't have much time left, so please make sure your comments are brief and to the point. 我们剩下的时间不多了，所以请务必简明扼要地陈述你的意见。

Grammar 语法

I Infinitives 动词不定式 (2) (3)

动词不定式 (Infinitives) 是重要的非谓语动词形式之一, 由“(to) + 动词原形”构成。动词不定式有动词特征, 可与其逻辑主语、宾语、状语等一起构成不定式短语。动词不定式在句中的位置灵活、句法功能丰富, 可充当谓语以外的几乎所有句子成分。除前面学过的不定式作宾语、宾补、定语、状语等用法外, 不定式在句中还可以用作主语和表语。

1 不定式作主语

(1) 用作主语的动词不定式及其短语常出现在谓语动词之后, 这时需在句首用形式主语 it 指代它。例如:

As a chef, it was my duty to cook, so I tried to vary the meals in whatever way I could.

It was easy to imagine the danger ahead of them.

During this period, it can be easy for some teenagers to form bad habits.

(2) 不定式作主语位于句首常出现于正式文体中。例如:

To help others gives a person satisfaction.

To prevent harmful habits like these from dominating a teenager's life is essential.

To change bad habits is never easy, even with many attempts.

2 不定式作表语

Perhaps the best way to understand Western art is to look at the development of Western painting over the centuries.

In this work, Monet's aim was to convey the light and movement in the scene.

3 “疑问词 + 不定式”结构

动词不定式可与疑问词 when、where、how、what、which、who 等组合, 构成不定式短语, 在句中主要用作主语、宾语和表语。

When to start has not been decided yet. (作主语)

Do you know where to find Tom? (作宾语)

My main concern is how to get there on time. (作表语)

II Direct Speech and Indirect Speech 直接引语和间接引语

引述别人的话有两种方式: 直接引述别人的原话, 叫直接引语 (Direct Speech)。用自己的话转述别人的话, 叫间接引语 (Indirect Speech)。间接引语在多数情况下构成宾语从句。直接引语一般前后要加引号, 间接引语不用引号。例如:

John told her, “I'd like to see a movie now.” (直接引语) →

John told her that he would like to see a movie then. (间接引语)

间接引语比直接引语使用起来更加灵活, 而且还可以达到委婉、礼貌等交际目的, 因此在语言交际中, 间接引语比直接引语更加常用。使用间接引语时, 所转述的信息要便于听者理解, 这就要求说话人根据时间、地点、指代关系等语境因素的变化, 对直接引语中的部分词语在语言形式上进行必要的变化。例如:

The reporter asked, “Will polar bears die out because of climate change?” (直接引语) →

The reporter asked whether polar bears would die out because of climate change. (间接引语)

使用间接引语时, 英语和汉语既有相似之处 (如人称、时间、地点、指代词的变化等), 也有不同的特点 (如时态变化等)。例如:

He said, “I will go to see you at your home tomorrow.” →

He said that he would come to see me at my home the next day.

The reporter asked, “How can we save polar bears from extinction?” →

The reporter asked how we could save polar bears from extinction.

转述祈使句时，要根据说话人的情感和语气使用tell、ask、order、advise等动词，再把祈使句的动词原形变为带to的不定式。如果祈使句为否定式，在不定式前加not。例如：

"Let's work together to stop climate change," the expert said. →

The expert advised us to work together to stop climate change.

He said, "Don't make so much noise, boys." →

He told the boys not to make so much noise.

III Tenses 时态 (4)

现在完成进行时 (The Present Perfect Continuous Tense)

- 1 使用现在完成进行时的句子，谓语由“have/has + been + doing”构成。

现在完成进行时陈述句、一般疑问句和简单回答如表格所示（以动词 work 为例）：

陈述句	一般疑问句	简单回答
I/We/You/They have (not) been working ...	Have I/we/you/they been working...?	Yes, I/we/you/they have. No, I/we/you/they haven't.
He/She/It has (not) been working ...	Has he/she/it been working ...?	Yes, he/she/it has. No, he/she/it hasn't.

- 2 使用现在完成进行时的句子，表达的是谓语动词所叙述的动作行为由过去开始，一直持续到说话之时且有可能还在继续。例如：

This is the adventure that I have been dreaming of.

We have been struggling for days, but things on Elephant Island are going from bad to worse.

The dog has been barking for about two hours. I really hope it will stop soon.

- 3 使用现在完成进行时的句子，表意上需要动作行为具有延续性的特点。因此，某些不具延续性含义的动词，如 come、go、marry、die、finish 等，不适用于现在完成进行时。

IV Relative Clauses 定语从句

定语从句中一般不用 which 作关系代词的几种情况：

- 1 当先行词为 all、little、much、few、every、everything、any、anything、no、nothing、none 等不定代词或由它们修饰时，关系代词多用 that 而不用 which。例如：

Is there anything (that) I can do for you?

All (that) I want is your advice.

There is nothing that can be done.

- 2 先行词前有序数词修饰时，关系代词通常用 that 不用 which。例如：

The first thing (that) we need to do is to work out a plan.

- 3 先行词前有形容词最高级修饰时，关系代词通常用 that 不用 which。例如：

That was the best film (that) I have ever seen.

- 4 先行词前有 the very、the only、the same、the right 等修饰时，关系代词通常用 that 不用 which。例如

There were no trees growing on Antarctica and no oil, so the only fuel (that) we could use was animal fat.

- 5 当主句是以 which、who、what 开头的特殊问句时，引导定语从句的关系代词一般用 that，而不用 which。例如：

What is the main environmental issue (that) you want to address?

Which of those books that are on the desk belongs to you?
